STATE POLITICS.

The Republican Squabbles in the Rural Districts.

The Growlers Depending Upon Democratic Assistance in New York to Carry On Their Plans.

The Twelfth Senatorial District.

THE CASE OF SENATOR BAKER

Did He Accept Bribes During the Two Last Legislative Sessions?

What His Accusers Say and What His Friends Deny.

The Thirteenth District To Elect a Democratic Senator, but the Assemblymen in Doubt.

FORT EDWARD,
WASHINGTON COUNTY, Oct. 19, 1873.

Up to a recent period, ever since the good old days when Tammany and Mozart Hall and all the rest of the rag, tag and bobtail democratic organizations in your city were wont to amuse themselves by a yearly attempt to cut one another's throats for the benefit of the party and the people at large, it had become a part of the political creed of the countrymen in the State, democrats and republicans alike, to believe that to New York county alone belonged the exclusive right to enjoy bolts and so-called independent offshootings from the regular rings that presume to rule there and ruin as best they saw fit. It is true that once in awhile here and there in the country districts New Yorkers were regaled with stories, just before election time, as to how the republicans who were not profiting by the stealings of the canal ring or the salt ring were determined to break away from the party, but everybody knows how, as a rule, these little differences in the long run were smoothed over, and how hopeful democrats south of Spuyten Duyvil were, consequently, thrown into spasms of despair the day after election on hearing that the regular republican candidate had been successful

"BY ABOUT THE USUAL MAJORITY."

When Boss Tweed and Peter B. finally got hold of the wires and stoutly held on to that which was good (for themselves) the country republican was soon made to bewail the degeneracy of the time when even republicans in the great city were willing to bolt from the old faith, and thus aid (all unintentionally, you know) in keeping in power the masters who dared even to invade the green, rural districts, and who, with their bags of green inducements, succeeded oft in dragging down from their high republican state of purity the very men the countrymen themselves placed the most trust in. But now that Tweed and Sweeny have been swept out of political existence and that there is no politician so poor as to do them honor, and that even the Tammany republicans have no longer a hope, by so-called independent movements, to terrify the weak-kneed republican voters of the country districts, several of the rural sections of the State have, apparently, determined to enjoy those very breaks in the party lines which, heretofore, they have always frowned down among themselves and heartily encouraged among the enemy. And for the most part, so far as I have been able to learn, in a majority of instances the growlers are actuated by the same motives which were always paramount to everything else with the democratic growlers of New York,

A DESIRE TO SHARE IN THE SPOILS.

I am confident if the intelligence was flashed across the wires from New York to-morrow that Tammany and Apollo would unite on legislative candidates that in every district where there is now a little bickering in the republican family not a word more would be heard of discontent, and that the regular candidate would be sure of an election "by about the usual majority." I find, however, that it has been industriously circulated throughout the country districts I have so far passed through that Apollo will give its support, under cover, to the republican Senatorial candidates in order to revenge itself upon Tammany for her victory at Utica; and so the malcontents feel that they can afford to keep up their family rows without any danger of the democrats getting control of the Senate. They apparently believe that, even if they should not obtain all they are seeking in fighting the regular Senatorial candidates of their own party, they may defeat them, confident that Apollo's aid to the republicans of New York will more than counterbalance any loss. Indeed, I met a prominent republican yesterday who told me that but for this certainty of democratic assistance in New York the disaffected republicans in this district, at least, would ground arms at once for the sake of the party and bide their time for a better opportunity to gain the ends they have in view. When I informed the gentleman that, in my opinion, he and his were

COUNTING WITHOUT THEIR HOST

in this Apollo matter he told me that the assistance was pledged and that a friend of his had received a letter from a well known republican in New York, asking him to use his best endeavors to harmonize the contending factions in the district, even though there would be three republican senators from New York "if our present arrangement with certain democrats do not fail." It is needless to state that my informant gave this information as confidential, at least that he refused to let me know who the prominent republican in New York is who told him about the alleged bargain. I think but few New Yorkers will put any faith in it. But now let me give you a little insight into the troubles among the republicans in this district and the prospects generally. This district, it will be remembered, was represented in the Senate last year and the year previous by Mr. J. V. Baker, Jr., whose father was at the time, if I mistake not, the Superintendent of the Rensselaer and Saratoga Railroad Company. He was not only a railroad man himself, but he was backed up in his election by all the power that that mammoth corporation, the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, could bring to bear during the canvass. He was, in point of fact, sent to the Senate not so much to represent the people of the two counties which form his district as to serve the behests and wishes of his railroad patrons. I do not say this in any disparagement of Senator Baker, for, as things are now ordered, by far the majority of Assemblymen and Senators from what New Yorkers call country districts are sent to the Legislature to represent corporations instead of the voters in their districts. If the corporation that has it in its power to make or unmake a candidate in any of the districts is not a railroad, it is an interest made up of combinations, a salt ring, as in the Onondaga district, or the canal ring, as in many other districts. Under the circumstances I repeat, that in calling Mr. Baker the representative of a railroad interest I do not mean to single him out as an exception to a general rule; for to do so would be to place him wrong on the record. During the last session of the Legislature he was active and untiring in his efforts to show his

FEALTY TO THE RAILROAD INTEREST,

no matter under what garb it presumed to show itself; and when the session came to an end, although there were many who did not agree with him in everything that he did as a Senator, not a word of suspicion as to his honesty was even whispered. However, we all know that a candidate is always open to all sorts of charges about election time, and it now seems that Mr. Baker, in the opinion of many people in his district, was not only a sly dog of a legislator but also a corruptionist. I have not the time now to go into detail as to the charges that have been brought against him, but, if they are true, they certainly ought to be a bar to his re-election. In brief, he is accused of accepting bribes and of having voted against the Pro Rata Freight bill for a consideration of $5,000. An affidavit of a certain party has also been made a part of the warfare against him, the affidavit itself accusing him of corruption and money taking for his vote as a Senator. On the other hand, it is alleged that the man who made the affidavit was paid $500 for his trouble, and that the lobby, or an integral portion of it, had also a hand in the pie. I can readily understand that an Albany lobbyist would hesitate at nothing to secure his own purposes, and that he would as willingly swear a man's character away to serve his own ends as he would indignantly protest against being placarded as a corruptionist in the daily prints; but what I do not understand in the matter is that Mr. Baker and his friends have done nothing to punish the perjurers, if, as they insist, the parties who made the charges against him really swore to what they knew to be lies. During the past few days I have stopped at several places both in this county and Rensselaer, and have made the most diligent inquiries to get at the truth of the whole trouble. Mr. Baker's friends I have found as earnest in their belief in his innocence as his enemies are persistent in their accusations, and as between the two, I must frankly say that almost everywhere where I found he had an enemy I found that he had twenty friends. In every attempt I have made to sound the charges to the bottom I have been obliged to fall back on

THE STORIES OF A LOBBYMAN.

While it is undoubtedly true that if Mr. Baker was a corruptionist the lobby would know more about it than anybody else, yet the evidence of a lobbyist, unsupported by the evidence of any respectable party, is at all times unreliable; in fact, not worthy of a moment's consideration; for a lobbyman may some times tell the truth, but he is so used to lying and perjury that even when he may be telling the truth nine honest men out of ten believe him to be telling a lie. However, I do not wish to be understood as saying that Mr. Baker's accusers, rather, to be more correct, that those of his constituents who believe him guilty are men of no account. By no means. Some of the most worthy republicans (though not prominent men) in his district shake their heads when spoken to about the accusations, and say, "We are afraid it's all true." On the other hand, among those who scent the idea of the Senator's guilt is Martin J. Townsend, a republican whose reputation is national, than whom there is none more faithful to the party, none more bitter in their unfeigned hatred of political corruption. This gentleman declares that he has examined into the charges and that they are a tissue of lies from beginning to end, "born of a malice that can only be fitly styled as devilish." But thus much for both sides of the corruption charges, and now a word as to Mr. Baker's chances for another Senatorial term. In the first place, let me say that last Thursday the Convention which met at this place renominated him by a vote of 14 to 1, and the opposition unit fell into line finally, thus making the nomination unanimous. In accepting the nomination Mr. Baker alluded to the charges made against him by saying:—"Your action to-day has a significance beyond the honoring of an individual or of partisan advancement. It sets the seal of condemnation upon the peculiar method of conducting a canvass as adopted by certain individuals in this district—a method, as stated by, perhaps, the first man in the district, 'malicious to that degree that it becomes devilish.' I do not propose to go into the details of this opposition. Suffice it to say that its operations have been of such a character as should bring the blush of shame to those engaged in it."

MR. BAKER'S CHANCES.

It is certainly rather surprising, in view of all the charges made against the candidate, that he received the vote he did, and yet I think that the vote is simply a reflection of what a majority of the voters in the district intend to do on election day. It is said that his opponents will circulate Thurlow Weed's letter in every town, and to this threat the friends of Mr. Baker reply that Mr. Weed was misled by what he thought were facts, and will only be too glad to take back what he has already said when he learns the true history of the charges. Now it is not often that a man like Thurlow Weed comes out in print against the renomination of a candidate of his own party before he is satisfied that he knows of what he speaks, and this fact, more than anything else, may drive many a republican into voting against Mr. Baker. Still, even if the letter is allowed to remain unqualified by Mr. Weed, I do not believe Baker will be defeated. I have taken great pains to get at the sentiments of the majority of the voters in the two counties as to what they intend to do, and the more I have prosecuted my inquiries the firmer has become my conviction that he will be re-elected. I will add just here, by the way, that if the democrats should put up a good man against him and the disaffected republicans should stand by him the race will be a hot one; but as the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad and other railroad interests can do pretty much as they please in the district, I do not think the democratic candidate will be able to draw a very much larger vote than in former years. In the last Senatorial election Rensselaer and Washington counties combined gave Baker a majority of 4,458. The district is at all times republican, and, I am convinced, will be found to be as republican as ever next November. Rensselaer will, I think, secure two republicans for Assembly of the three members she is entitled to, and Washington will also be sure to send two (her full quota) republicans.

THE THIRTEENTH DISTRICT.

I have already visited several places in the Thirteenth Senatorial district, represented in the last Senate by Charles H. Adams, a republican, and, although there is no quarrel going on among the republicans like that which is going on in the adjoining district, yet the outlook goes to show that the district, in all probability, will be represented in the Senate by a democrat. Jesse E. Dayton, of Watervliet, is the standard bearer of the democrats, and Charles P. Eaton of the republicans. Mr. Dayton was elected a supervisor last year in a republican district by a large majority, and his opponent was beaten for the Assembly by a democrat last winter. The democrats, however, in the matter of their Assemblymen are rather in a muddle, there being two sets of candidates in each district. Efforts are being made to straighten things out and leave the field open to a single-handed combat in each one between one democrat and one republican. If these efforts are successful the democrats feel confident of being able to carry three of the four districts, but if the regulars and anti-regulars continue their squabbling the entire delegation will be republican. If this should turn out to be the case the fault will be with one or two prominent democrats in Albany, who, in the opinion of the rank and file, are acting rather suspiciously. So it will be seen that Apollo and Tammany tactics have not been lost upon even Albany, which learns slowly, but when it does learn learns well.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

A regular meeting of the Republican Central Committee was held last evening at Republican Hall, corner of Twenty-third street and Broadway, Mr. Hugh Gardner presiding. There was a full attendance, including ex-Collector Murphy, Colonel Charles S. Spencer, Congressman Mellish and other magnates of the party. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and approved, the chairman inquired the pleasure of the committee in regard to the issuing by the republicans of ballots at the approaching election relative to the Westchester annexation proposition.

On motion of Colonel BLISS it was ordered that tickets, either "for" or "against," be supplied, according to the pleasure of the voter. The same gentleman, from the Committee on Contesting Delegations, reported progress. On behalf of the delegations from the Fifteenth and Seventeenth Assembly districts a request was preferred that the Assembly conventions in those districts be allowed to select another day than that already fixed for their holding. Permission was granted them, provided that notice, either personal or by advertisement, be given each of the delegates.

On motion of Colonel SPENCER it was then resolved that all republicans be earnestly urged to register without delay.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE SIXTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

The Sixth Senatorial District Convention met last night at their headquarters, No. 230 Second street, and unanimously nominated Jacob A. Gross for Senator.

JOHN FOX FOR SENATOR.

The Senatorial Convention of the Fourth district Tammany Hall organization was held yesterday afternoon in the Seventh Ward Hotel, No. 173 Madison street. Constantine Donahue presided.

A motion was made by Judge HOGAN and carried, that they should proceed into voting by informal ballot.

In the First district the Hon. John Fox was nominated. The Second district returned the same nomination.

Alderman MCCLANCEY, of the Third district, withdrew the vote of his district and voted blank.

Judge SHANDLEY, Chairman of the Fourth district, withdrew the vote of that district.

The Sixth district cast their vote for Timothy J. Campbell.

Judge SHANDLEY then stated that, as a candidate must be presented, he would name the Hon. John Fox as the candidate chosen to the Fourth district. In the Third district the vote was also given to Mr. Fox.

Judge HOGAN then offered a motion that the Convention should cast their votes by Assembly districts, which was carried with the following result:—

Dist.	Votes.	Dist.	Votes
1—John Fox	23	4—John Fox	26
2—John Fox	23	6—Timothy J. Campbell	18
3—John Fox	18

The votes then, as announced by the chairman, were 90 for Mr. Fox and 18 for Mr. Campbell.

On motion the nomination of Mr. Fox was declared unanimous.

A committee of one from each district was appointed to inform Mr. Fox of his nomination, and the Convention adjourned.

THE COMMITTEE OF SEVENTY ADJOURNED SINE DIE.

The Committee of Seventy had its last meeting last evening, Mr. James M. Brown, Chairman, presiding, who announced he had just received a communication from Mayor Havemeyer, which was read, giving his reasons why the Committee of Seventy should not dissolve. Mr. Joseph H. Choate, from the committee appointed at a previous meeting to prepare a statement for the public, read a report giving reasons why the committee should dissolve, which, after some slight change, was adopted. The thanks of the committee, with brief complimentary remarks, were voted Messrs. James M. Brown, Benjamin B. Sherman, Simon Sterne and Emil Sauer, the officers of the committee, which then adjourned sine die.

THE VIRGINIA CANVASS.

Hubbub Among the Chivalry—Colonel Hughes Not To Be Withdrawn—Little Likelihood of His Election.

RICHMOND, Oct. 21, 1873.

The HERALD's account of the Fowler-Clarkson affair at Bristol, Tenn., involving the disqualification of Colonel Robert W. Hughes, the republican candidate for Governor, for having acted as second in a contemplated duel in violation of the constitution and laws of this State, fell like a bombshell among our people and caused no little consternation. The conservatives were surprised. They had not thought of it before, and, of course, were elated at the new prospect which, at the first glance, it seemed to open up, while the republicans exhibited a good deal of trepidation at first and were disposed to be panicky. Some of their leaders declared at once that Hughes would have to be withdrawn, and suggested Henry A. Wise as his successor, while others thought it too late to make the change. The most practised politicians among them, however, looked upon it as

A WEAK INVENTION OF THE ENEMY,

and determined it should be treated with indifference. The more thoughtful of the conservatives, too, were disposed to view it with disfavor. To accuse a man of violating the duelling code was abhorrent to the chivalric instincts of Virginia, and hence it could expect to find little favor among the people; and if that were the only thing that should interpose between Hughes and the gubernatorial mansion it was but a weak barrier and easily overcome. The State Journal comes out fiercely and brands the whole thing as a base trick and an infamous lie got up by conservatives of Virginia, who were ashamed to publish it first in their own papers, to affect the election adversely to Hughes. That paper denied that Hughes had been the bearer of a hostile note or challenge to Fowler, and undertook to explain that he had no intention of engaging in a duel at the time. It is difficult to say what will be the upshot of the HERALD's disclosures. It is the general belief that Hughes is disqualified by this act; but to proceed on it is the question.

HE WILL NOT BE WITHDRAWN,

that is certain, and should he be elected the office will perhaps be withheld from him by Governor Walker on this ground, until the question shall have been decided by the Courts. Thus matters would be greatly complicated; but the prospects of his election are so slender that very few fear any trouble on that score.

The HERALD's developments were telegraphed here in full to the Enquirer and the Dispatch from Washington last night, and they were the sensation of to-day. The republicans, of course, are greatly enraged and give full vent to their anger, while the conservatives are complacent and take it coolly enough. Colonel Hughes is absent in Washington, and there has been no opportunity to consult with him as to his own views; but as he has never considered himself disqualified by his course on that occasion it is probable he will take no notice of it, further than to defend himself as best he can against this flank movement, on the stump and through the press. The Republican State Committee have determined to retain him, come what may, and the canvass will go on as it begun.

FAILURE OF THE NATIONAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

The National Life Insurance Company of New York, doing business at No. 212 Broadway, failed yesterday and was placed in the hands of a receiver, Mr. Eli Beard, who was appointed by Judge Fancher and ordered to file bonds in $100,000. This result was brought about by the petition of Mr. Joseph Wilde, of Brooklyn, based upon the report of the State Superintendent of Insurance that the reserve capital of the company had been impaired to the extent of $160,000. The petitioner, stating that he held forty shares, worth $50 per share, his whole interest amounting to $2,000, asked for an injunction prohibiting the company from exercising any of its corporate rights, privileges or franchises, from collecting or receiving any debts or demands and from paying out or in any way transferring or delivering to any person any of the money or effects of the company. The petition states that the liabilities of the company are an indebtedness on the policies, calculated according to the provisions of the law of 1853, and the amount necessary as a reserve, $695,296, and the assets, as ascertained and admitted by the superintendent, are $544,213, and the unadmitted assets are, as appears by the table, $127,690, exclusive of premium notes over reserve on policies represented by those notes, but not allowed, $72,357, showing thereby a deficiency of the admitted assets as regards policy holders of $169,412, and as to stockholders of $319,412.

A HERALD reporter, who called at the office of the company, was informed that the concern was in the hands of a receiver; that the State Superintendent found their reserve below the standard which he fixes, and, consequently there was no help for the company but to collapse, unless the stockholders were willing to make up the deficiency. They held a meeting yesterday afternoon and declined to take that course; consequently the company ceases to exist and adds another to the long list of failures this season. The stockholders felt unable, on account of the scarcity of money, to come to the rescue.

The reporter's informant declared that the policy holders would lose nothing by the failure, as their policies would be transferred to another company in good standing, and the loss will fall altogether on the stockholders. He further said that if the Superintendent had allowed in calculating the reserve the sum marked in the table "unadmitted assets," matters would be all right. The cause of the reserve falling below the required amount was the general one that affected financial business in all directions. It was one of the results of the universal monetary disturbance, and could only have been met and tided over by a sacrifice on the part of the stockholders. The following is a table of the assets and liabilities, showing also the items not admitted into the calculations of the State Superintendent:—

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY BETWEEN SAILORS—SPEEDY DEATH.

Arrest of the Guilty Party.

A tragic affair resulting in the death of an innocent and inoffensive man took place yesterday, shortly before twelve o'clock, in the groggery of Timothy O'Brien, No. 186 Cherry street. It appears that Thomas Clark, a mulatto sailor, called at the sailors' house to see James Walsh, a shipmate, and from there they proceeded to O'Brien's place, where they drank to excess. Suddenly, and apparently without cause, Clark drew a six-barrelled pistol and aimed it at Walsh, who thereupon grasped the weapon and held Clark's hand, but relaxing his grasp the latter commenced firing indiscriminately, the second shot taking effect on the person of Martin Gettens, an English seaman, forty-five years of age, then in the place, and who was to have sailed in a few hours for London, in the ship Hudson. The ball entered a little to the left of the median line, just below the sternum, and apparently pierced the stomach. Gettens lived but a few minutes afterwards. Captain Mount, of the Seventh precinct, being informed of the tragedy, caused the arrest of Clark and locked him up in the station house, to await the action of the Coroner.

James Walsh, who is a United States sailor on furlough, and several other persons, are detained as witnesses. Apparently there was no intent on the part of Clark to shoot Gettens or any one else, as there was no provocation for doing so. Deceased boarded at No. 67 Monroe street, and Clark lived at No. 190 Cherry street.

Late in the afternoon Coroner Keenan and Deputy Coroner Leo were informed that Gettens had been shot, and, accordingly, repaired to the station house, and had the body sent to the Morgue, where Dr. Leo will make an autopsy this morning.

AN OFFERING TO SCIENCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 21, 1873.

James Lick, a wealthy citizen of this place, proposes to the Academy of Sciences to endow an astronomical observatory, to be established at some point in the Sierre Nevada Mountains, 10,000 feet above the level of the sea. The plan is taking a definite and tangible shape.

THE FINANCIAL PROBLEM.

Improvement in Wall Street Circles and Confidence On 'Change.

Is a New Movement in Stocks Intended?

Money Easier, Foreign Exchange Firmer and "Bull" Rumors from Washington.

SOME FACTS FOR THE OUTSIDE PUBLIC.

The Dividend-Paying Railroad Stocks of the United States, with a Comparison of the Nominal and Actual Stock Value of the Same.

There was an excellent feeling on 'Change yesterday, and the gloomy apprehensions born of the late Wall street panic seemed to have vanished into thin air. A fair export demand continues for flour, and the market closed with a firmer feeling than prevailed at the opening. Wheat advanced upon a better demand for commercial bills and more favorable European advices. Cotton ruled dull throughout the day and weak.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

advanced upon a rumor that the government would shortly purchase £1,000,000, which rumor gained general credence for a time, notwithstanding its manifest absurdity, when the President had refused to thus interfere with government aid at a time when this market was in real distress, from which it is now actively recovering. It appears, however, that there was this much truth in the rumor, that application was made to the President to induce him to make this purchase, but he declined to operate in this way other than as the requirements of the government business call for the use of foreign exchange.

MONEY SHOWS GREATER EASE,

the fact that many of the banks have virtually resumed currency payments, and the expectation that the rest will shortly follow, inducing a freer outflow of legal tenders from private sources. As a result of this the bulk of the day's business in loans was done on the basis of 7 per cent. Another Washington report was started to the effect that the President will shortly make heavy drafts upon the $44,000,000 reserve. The explanation of this is, probably, that this reserve, having been already drawn upon, the President will, if the currency demands upon the government exceed current receipts, draw upon it for necessary payments until such time as a full return of confidence among the people restores the ordinary volume of $311,000,000 to healthy circulation.

GOLD ADVANCED

to 108¾ yesterday and closed at 108⅝. There is fresh apprehension expressed of a further advance of the bank rate by the Bank of England at the next meeting of the directors. The rate in the open market was quoted at only ½ below the Bank rate yesterday.

THE STOCK MARKET

showed decided signs of improvement as a consequence of the rumors referred to above, and a more bullish tone prevailed in Wall street circles, either as a further result of these rumors or as indicative of a possible movement for an advance. It will be noticed as one of the curious phases of the present situation that, while "bulls" are scarce on the street, "bears" are equally so, and timid withal. The latter were losers as well as the "bulls" in their last campaign, and the only chance for them to recover these losses is, with the return to a normal condition of the money market, to turn "bulls," and by sharp purchases so advance prices as to draw in again the outside public, now badly frightened off, to relieve them of their stocks at higher figures than now rule. The "outside public" will of course take its own course in this matter, no matter what is said; but as money is yet wanted for commercial and other legitimate uses, that it may not be heedlessly diverted to fresh speculation on the Stock Exchange, to be followed by a more dangerous reaction in the spring, the following table is submitted. Let the "outside public" examine it carefully, and go in, if they must, with their eyes open:—

Table showing the railroads upon the stock of which dividends were paid last year, the amount of stock upon which such dividend was paid and the percentage of dividend, also the amount of real stock upon which only such dividends should have been paid:—

OBITUARY.

James Hughes.

Hon. James Hughes died, at his residence, in the neighborhood of Washington, D. C., yesterday morning, of heart disease, aged fifty years. He was a member of the Thirty-fifth Congress, afterwards a Judge of the Court of Claims and latterly engaged in legal practice. Mr. Hughes was born at Hampstead, Md., and was educated at the State University of Indiana. He was a lawyer by profession and served as a member of the Indiana Legislature. During the Mexican war he was appointed first Lieutenant of the Sixteenth regiment of United States infantry and performed duty to the close of the contest. In the Bar of 1853 he was elected Professor of Law in the University of Indiana, and filled the chair during a space of three years. In Congress he served on the Committee on Territories. President Buchanan appointed Mr. Hughes a Judge of the Court of Claims, which office he resigned in 1865. President Johnson commissioned him a cotton agent for the Treasury Department.

FIRE IN PEARL STREET.

Fire in the four story brick building No. 231 Pearl street last evening destroyed property to the value of $2,000.

"QUEER" DEALERS.

Arrest of Seven Tennessee Counterfeiters.

WHO AND WHAT THEY ARE.

An Ex-Revenue Collector, Justice of the Peace and a Deputy United States Marshal Among the Prisoners.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21, 1873.

The arrest of counterfeiters in this section is being pushed forward by Colonel Whitley's force with unabated vigor. The squad of Secret Service men and United States Marshals sent to Union county arrived at Maynardsville on Monday about midnight and remained secreted in the woods about one mile and a quarter from the place until two of the Secret Service men, who had been sent forward in advance, should return with information as to the exact location of the parties. Monday being the opening day of the county Court the accused, seven in number, were all found to be assembled in the clerk's office, evidently bent on "making a night of it." This being ascertained, the squad rode rapidly into town and surrounded the building, while two men entered, and, going to the clerk's room, presented their revolvers and informed the party that they were under arrest.

THE SURPRISE

was so great that only one of the prisoners thought of resisting, but he was speedily quieted and the whole party ironed and brought away. They arrived at Knoxville about noon to-day, after a hard ride of nearly seventy miles over the roughest kind of mountain roads. As they rode into the city the streets were lined with a curious crowd, who followed the prisoners to the United States Marshal's office, and saw them safely lodged, under guard temporarily, until they could procure bail, in default of which they were to be locked up. When the facts became known as to who the prisoners really were, the excitement increased to fever heat.

THE COUNTERFEITERS AND WHO THEY ARE.

Among the prisoners are A. A. Snodderly, ex-United States Commissioner and United States Revenue Collector, and a Lieutenant of Tennessee cavalry during the war. He is at present Clerk of the Circuit Court of Union county and Assistant Postmaster at Maynardsville. He is an intelligent looking man, of stalwart proportions and fine physique, not above thirty-five years of age, and is possessed of considerable wealth. The charge against him is that of dealing in counterfeit fifty cent Lincoln and Stanton head stamps and $50 counterfeit legal tender notes, series of 1863.

A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

J. J. Sellers, Justice of the Peace for Union county, a well-to-do farmer of some means and a man looked up to among his neighbors as being above reproach. He is charged with dealing in counterfeit fifty cent notes of the Lincoln and Stanton head issues, and also with selling counterfeit Mexican silver dollars.

John M. Sawyer is a deputy United States Marshal, late major in the Eighth Tennessee cavalry, and a resident of Rutledge. He is charged with dealing in counterfeit fifty cent stamps, Stanton head issue, and counterfeit Mexican silver dollars.

A WELL-TO-DO FARMER.

Nicholas Sharp is a well-to-do farmer, who told the Secret Service officer to whom he sold counterfeit money that he had been dealing in "queer" thirty-five years and had not been caught yet. He is over sixty years of age, and is charged with dealing in fifty dollar counterfeit legal tender notes, series of 1863, and fifty cent counterfeit stamps.

J. M. Myers is a young man of limited experience in the business of counterfeiting, and not being with the party arrested at the Court House it was necessary to send a secret service officer, who knew him, to his house. When the officer rapped at the door young Myers arose, and, on being told who was there, wanted to know what the matter was. The officer replied that he wished to buy some more "queer." Myers at once came out and actually made a deal with the officer, who paid him in marked money, and then arrested him.

THE OTHER PRISONERS

are persons of no special importance. In Grainger county R. G. Short, John Wilson and Thomas McLanahan were arrested. Wilson has formerly been a Justice of the Peace. They are charged with dealing in fifty cent counterfeit notes and $50 counterfeit legal tenders.

All the above named parties were brought before United States Commissioner Aiken and held in the sum of $5,000 each. Six of them were LOCKED UP IN DEFAULT OF BAIL.

Three more persons will conclude the number of arrests to be made in the immediate vicinity of Knoxville. It is supposed these latter will be brought in some time to-night and the secret service men engaged here will then leave for North Carolina to assist in completing the arrests there.

It is thought here that these operations have struck a blow against counterfeiting in this locality which it will require years to recover.

PROSPECT PARK FAIR GROUNDS.

First Day of the Extra Autumn Trotting Meeting—Charley Green the Winner of the 2:26 Purse—The 2:39 Race Postponed After Four Heats.

The first day of the extra autumn meeting at the Prospect Park Fair Grounds was a success, both in the matter of attendance and character of the sport offered for the amusement of the populace. First on the programme was a purse of $1,000, for horses that had never beaten 2:26, mile heats, best three in five, in harness; $500 being given to the first, $300 to the second and $200 to the third horse. In the pools of the six starters Ben Flagler was the favorite, with Lydia Thompson second choice and the others in the field. James Dougrey's brown gelding Joker won the first heat, and, to the consternation of the sanguine pool buyers, the bay gelding Charley Green scored the second, third and fourth heats and the race. The "sure guessers" were terribly at fault in this instance.

THE $44,000,000 RESERVE AGAIN.

WALL STREET,
TUESDAY, Oct. 21—6 P. M.

The fluctuations of the stock market to-day were inconsequential and the range of prices so slight as to forbid prognostication. No undertone or current being discernable the operator was obliged to content himself with mere guesses as to the future. The street was again filled with rumors, but most of these were of such a character as to carry denial on their face and exerted little influence on the situation. As regards the value of certain stocks perhaps the best test consists in the fact that a number of strong capitalists are said to have arrayed themselves on the "bull" side, and are confident in the belief that as soon as the banks dissolve their Clearing House copartnership and real money takes the place of certified checks

PRICES MUST AND WILL ASCEND.

This view of the market is not an illogical one. Every quotation of a greenback at a premium over certified checks is a confession of financial weakness. Contraction has followed distrust; distrust has been promoted by the too long continued policy of the banks, while bank officers are alleged to have helped on the difficulty by creating for themselves a special deposit fund, which has largely locked up money that should have been in circulation weeks ago. The result is a want of accommodation, from which the entire community has suffered; an artificial stringency; a great scare; an unnecessary shrinkage, and a consequent inability on the part of merchants, manufacturers, bankers and brokers to transact business in the ordinary way. When this is destroyed, even though the change may drive half a dozen institutions into bankruptcy and for the moment add fresh terrors to the situation, we shall enter upon a stronger career. The chief demand of the hour is confidence, for with faith comes ease; with ease, an advance in prices, and with advance in prices profit to the merchant and producer. Had the volume of currency been reduced by any other process than that of merely locking it up by the cowards of society—those who are always ready to speculate on the misery of humanity—the condition would be different. We could then measure it by a known guage, adjust the commerce of the country accordingly and feel some consolation in knowing that we were reaching towards a basis at once sound and substantial.

BANK COMBINATION

THE PRESENT CONDITION,

however, is artificial—changeable. The bubble "inflation" has burst; but what has occurred to prevent reinflation within the next six months, or whenever currency enters again upon its natural round? Nothing—absolutely nothing. No new law has been established; no present weakness is a sign of continuous debility; no possible misfortune can occur that will rob the country of its development or wealth; no money has gone out of America, and no financial disease, such as for the moment we are suffering from, can become chronic while the nation enjoys the arterial ebb and flow of its home and foreign trade, and every hour practically enlarges the limit of its success. It will be but a few months before

THE MILLIONS NOW REQUIRED

by the South for its cotton crop will come back to the North. By January or February this vast volume of currency, having fulfilled its commercial mission, will begin to return hither and find new use in the purchase of goods and preparations for the ensuing crop. Is there no hopeful lesson here? In less than sixty days nine-tenths if not all of the sum now hidden away in bank vaults, safes and old stockings will be seeking investment again. It is contrary to habit that it shall lie idle. Does any one imagine that when this outflow occurs panic prices are going to stay where they are, or that intrinsic values are going to be critically scrutinized and measured by the square and level of the present crisis? We doubt it. That more discretion will hereafter, for a time at least, be observed in the employment of money is undoubtedly true; but there is certainly nothing in the present situation which warrants a melancholy survey of the future or belief in the myriad predictions which, for one purpose or another, are forced on the public ear. Wall street is full of "wreckers." They are to be found after every storm here as well as elsewhere, and none are more eager to dismantle a ship and complete ruin. They pray for misfortune and grow rich on the débris.

MUCH ADO

was attempted by certain speculators on the basis of a statement that the Treasury would purchase $5,000,000 of exchange on account of the November interest due in Europe; and it was further circulated that somebody from Washington had a private letter from President Grant setting forth that the latter would draw on the $44,000,000 reserve. A special despatch from an authoritative source in Washington to the HERALD, answering an inquiry on this subject, says:—"There is no foundation whatever for such a report. New York parties are trying to induce the President to put out more legal tenders, and it may be done; but you may rest assured that the policy is opposed by Secretary Richardson." Other despatches from the seat of government are corroborative of the above, and from the source from which the rumor originated it is only fair to believe that it is a canard, manufactured from the whole cloth, to give one or two parties the benefit of a hoped-for advance in the market. Unless President Grant is himself speculating in Wall street he is not likely to do any such foolish thing as that suggested, or to tell of his purpose in advance.

THE MONEY MARKET.

There was a better outlook in the money market during the early hours of the day, but at the close the rate advanced from 7 per cent to 1-32 per cent. Greenbacks are quoted at ⅛ a ¼ per cent premium over certified checks, with exceptional transactions at par. The outstanding legal tender circulation shows an increase of $316,000 over the amount reported on Monday. Foreign exchange was firm, but irregular. Prime bankers' nominal rates were advanced to 107 for sixty days and 108¼ for short sight. Good bankers' sixty day bills were sold at 106 a 106¼. Short sight and cable transfers were scarce at full prices. Continental sterling was more active and produced its sympathetic influence on this side. Commercial bills sold at 105 a 105¼.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Late advices by cable from London report consols steady, and for the account strong at an advance of ⅛ per cent. American securities were irregular. Ten-forties declined ⅛ per cent, and the new loan advanced ⅛. The rest of our bonds were quiet and steady. The amount of bullion gone into the Bank of England on balance to-day was £10,000. We quote:—Consols for money, 92¼ a 92⅜; do. for account, 92⅜ a 92⅝; five-twenty bonds of 1865 (old), 93⅜ a 93¾; do. do. do. 1867, 96¼ a 96⅜; ten-forty bonds, 91¼ a 91½; new fives, 91 a 91¼; Erie, 38¼ a 38¾; New York Central, 75½ a 76. Amsterdam—Union Pacific first mortgage bonds, 66¼; do. stock, 17½; Northwestern preferred, 61¼; St. Paul preferred, 53; Erie shares, 41¼. Rentes at Paris opened weak and declined to 57f. 55c., but closed firmer at 57f. 80c. American securities at Frankfort were buoyant and advanced to 93⅛.

SOUTHERN SECURITIES

were dull. We note sales of old Tennessees at 70; new South Carolina sixes at 11, and Missouri sixes, Hannibal and St. Joseph issue, at 85. The following are the late quotations:—Missouri sixes, 87; do. do., Hannibal and St. Joseph issue, 84½; Tennessee sixes, old, 69½; do. do., new, 69⅞; Virginia sixes, old, 35; do. do., consolidated, 46; do. do., deferred, 8; North Carolina sixes, old, 18; do., North Carolina Railroad Company, coupon, 25; do. do., ex coupon, 25; South Carolina sixes, 26; do. do., January and July, 10¼; South Carolina Funding act, 1866, 11; Texas tens, 1876, 80.

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

This market showed a decided improvement, prices being steady and business active. Sales of 1881's, registered, were made as high as 110½; coupon, 112½; '65s, old, coupon, 108; new, 110¼; 1867's, 112¼; 1868's, 112; ten-forty coupons, 106⅜, and new fives, 107⅛. Currency sixes sold at 108⅜. The market at the close was firm at the following quotations:—United States sixes, 1881, registered, 110⅜ a 110⅝; do. do., 1881, coupon, 112 a 113; do. five-twenties, 1862, coupon, 106; do. do., 1864, do., 106⅜; do. do., 1865, do., 107⅛; do. do., 1865, do., new, 110 a 110½; do. do., 1867, do., 112⅛ a 112¼; do. do., 1868, do., 112 a 112½; do. ten-forties, coupon, 105⅞; do. fives, 1881, coupon, 107⅛; six per cent bonds Pacific Railroad, 108⅜ a 108⅝.

GOLD

was firm, advancing from 108⅜ a 108½ to 108⅜, and closing at 108⅜. The rates paid for carrying were 5, 6, 4, 3 and 2 per cent, and finally flat for borrowing. The prices of gold to-day were:—

One hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars in specie was shipped from Southampton for New York to-day by the steamship Weser. The steamship Nestorian, from Liverpool for Quebec, took £195,000.

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

The receipts from customs to-day were $381,000; from internal revenue, $135,222. The Assistant Treasurer paid out to-day $56,000 on account of interest and $44,000 in redemption of five-twenty bonds. The following were the Treasury balances at the close of business to-day in Washington:—Currency, $3,250,000; coin, $81,250,000; certificates, $29,125,000; outstanding legal tenders to-day, $359,816,000, an increase of $316,000 since yesterday.

RAILROAD BONDS

were steady, prices being well maintained and money showing itself quite as freely as during many days preceding the panic. We note the following sales:—New York Central sixes, Niagara Falls issue, 85; do. do., 1887, 87½; Albany and Susquehanna, second mortgage, 90; Michigan Central sevens, 94; Union Pacific sevens, guaranteed by State of Missouri, 91; Illinois Central bonds, 100; Alton and Terre Haute, second mortgage preferred, 80; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific sevens, 99; New Jersey Central, first mortage, new, 103; Union Pacific Railroad, first mortgage, 74; do. sevens, land grant bonds, 66⅜ a 66⅞; do. tens, income, 52 a 51; Ohio and Mississippi convertible sinking fund, 87; Columbus, Cincinnati and Indiana Central, first mortgage, 79; Erie, fifth mortgage, 90; Milwaukee and St. Paul eights, first mortgage, 103; Chicago and Northwestern consolidated, 83; Central Pacific gold bonds, 89; Lake Shore consolidated coupon bonds, 89⅛. THE STOCK MARKET.

In the stock market the largest transactions were in Western Union, which advanced from 57⅛ to 58¼, fell off to 56⅞, recovered to 57⅜, and finally sold at 57 a 57⅛. Lake Shore opened at 67⅞ a 68, declined to 66⅞, rallied to 67½, and left off at 66⅞. New York Central ranged from 89⅛ to 89⅜ before the first board. Then sales were made at 88⅞ a 89⅜ a 89. Rock Island sold at 92⅛ a 90⅞ a 91½, Wabash at 44 a 42⅝ a 43⅛ a 42⅝, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western at 89 a 88, and New Jersey Central at 90 a 90½ a 89⅝. Panama was quoted at 85 to 87 at one time, but late in the day sold at 90. Erie was strong, and advanced from 45 to 47. Shortly before the close there was a reaction of ⅞ per cent from the latter quotation.

HIGHEST AND LOWEST.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

Cotton Better—Flour Steady—Wheat Higher—Corn Firmer—Oats Easier—Sugar Fairly Active—Coffee Steadier—Naval Stores Quiet—Petroleum Quiet.

TUESDAY, Oct. 21—6 P. M.

There was an accelerated movement in general trade circles to-day and a more buoyant tone pervaded the markets. Some of the leading staples were firmer, and, in some cases, prices were decidedly higher. At the Produce Exchange the feeling was decidedly better. The European markets were generally firmer, while the Western markets also presented a firmer showing. The demand for breadstuffs was not very active, but the offerings were light, the receipts very moderate and holders firmer in their views, though the markets were no better. Business in flour was moderate at about yesterday's figures, while wheat sold higher, though not very active, and closed with the advance lost. Corn was also in fair demand at unchanged prices, while oats were easier and in no better request. Whiskey was fairly active and decidedly higher, though the receipts were fair. Pork again become an article of merchandise and sold at a large decline from the last prices paid. Lard was unchanged though rather easier. Cotton for future delivery advanced a trifle, but closed tame. Groceries looked better, and the offerings to sell were considerably less than they have been for some time. In naval stores and petroleum there was no essential improvement.

ASHES.—Receipts for the past three days, —— packages. There has been a fair jobbing demand for pots, with prices ruling steady at $8 25. Pearls were entirely nominal.

BUILDING MATERIALS.—The market for brick has been inactive since our last; but prices remained steady, as follows:—Pale, $4 a $4 25 per M.; Jersey, $6 50 a $7 per do.; up river points, $6 25 a $7 25; Haverstraw Bay, $7 25 a $8 25; Croton fronts, brown, $14 a $15; dark, $15 a $16; red, $16 a $17; Philadelphia, $28 50 a $30 50. The above prices are for lots afloat. Delivered are quoted as follows:—Pale, $6 a $6 25; Jersey, $8 50 a $9; up river, $8 25 a $9 25; Haverstraw Bay, $9 25 a $10 25. Lime was only moderately sought after, but quoted steady at $1 10 for Rockland common and $1 75 for do. lump. Cement was quiet and unchanged. Quoted at $1 75 for Rosendale, $4 50 a $4 75 for Roman and $5 75 for Portland. Laths were in light request at $2 a $2 05 for Eastern spruce.

CORDAGE.—We have nothing new to note in the branch of trade. The market was quiet and prices steady as follows:—Manila, large and small sizes, 18c. a 19c.; do. bolt rope yarns, 20c. a 21c.; tarred Manila, 17½c.; Sisal rope, 16c. a 17c.; New Zealand cordage, 16½c. a 17c.; Russia bolt rope yarns, 17c.

CANDLES.—In a jobbing way trade has been moderately firm, but otherwise the market was quiet and prices quoted steady, as follows:—Sperm, 29c. a 30c.; patent do., 39c. a 40c.; paraffine, 31c. a 32c.; stearic, 28c. a 29c.; adamantine, 19c. a 20c. for 16 oz.

COFFEE.—The market was firmer, with a more active demand for lots. The steamer South America arrived here to-day with 7,600 bags Rio. We note sales:—500 bags Rio, per Lynn, and 1,026 bags do., per N. B. Palmer, on private terms; also, at Baltimore, 1,500 bags do., per Amoyden, at 22c. gold, 60 days. Other descriptions were quiet. We quote:—Rio, ordinary cargoes, 19¼c. a 19¾c.; fair do. 20¼c. a 20½c.; good do., 21c. a 21½c.; prime do., 21¾c. a 22c.; extreme range for lots, 19¼c. a 22¼c., gold, per lb., 60 and 90 days credit; Java, government bags, 23c. a 24c.; grass mats, 24c. a 25c.; Singapore, 21c. a 22c.; Ceylon, 21c. a 22c.; Maracaibo, 21c. a 22c.; Laguayra, 21c. a 22c.; Jamaica, 19¾c. a 20½c.; St. Domingo, 19c. a 19½c.; Porto Rico, 20c. a 21½c.; Costa Rica, 20c. a 21½c.; Mexican, 19½c. a 20½c.; Savanilla, 19½c. a 21½c.; Curacoa, 19½c. a 21c. Messrs. Wm. Scott & Sons report the stock of Rio in the United States thus:—Galveston, 2,500 bags; New Orleans, 11,500; Savannah, 2,500; Charleston, 4,500; Baltimore, 43,886; New York, 57,230. Total, 122,116 bags.

COTTON on the spot was irregular. The appended quotations show an advance of ⅛c. per lb. on ordinary and ⅛c. per lb. on good ordinary, these grades being comparatively scarce here and appreciating in Liverpool. For future delivery a moderate business was in progress, at an advance of 1-16c. a ⅛c. At this improvement, however, the market closed, with more sellers than buyers. We quote:—

	Uplands.	Alabama.	N. Orleans.	Texas.

—Wheat was but sparingly offered, and, being in fair request, prices advanced 1c. per bushel for nearly all kinds of spring, but closed dull with the advance lost, Chicago being quoted at $1 35 a $1 36 and Milwaukee $1 40. The sales were about 85,000 bushels at $1 34 a $1 38 for car lots spring, $1 35 a $1 36 for full loads No. 2 Chicago, $1 41 for small lots Milwaukee, $1 42 a $1 43 for No. 1 Milwaukee and Sheboygan. Corn was in fair request and firmer, but closed with the advance lost. The sales comprised 160,000 bushels chiefly at 60c. a 61c. for mixed, closing at 60c. Oats were in light demand and easier, with sales of 60,000 bushels at 49c. a 51c. for mixed, closing at 49c. a 50c.; 48c. for mixed on the track and 49c. a 52c. for white on the track, the latter for very choice. Barley—We note sales 3,000 2-rowed State at $1 30; $1 50 was asked for 4-rowed State without sales. Rye was quiet; we heard of no sales.

FREIGHTS.—There was a more active movement in the line of berth freights to-day and with moderate offerings room rates generally were firm. Vessels for charter met with a good inquiry, especially those adapted to the wants of the grain trade. Rates were higher for grain and firm for petroleum, but essentially unchanged for other commodities. The engagements were:—To Liverpool, by steam, 86,000 bushels of grain at 12½d. a 13d., 400 bales of cotton at 9-16d. as it runs, 2,000 boxes of cheese at 50s., 300 boxes of bacon at 47s. 6d., 100 tierces of beef at 8s. 6d., and 100 hhds. of tallow at 45s. To London, by sail, 16,000 bushels of grain at 13d. bulk, and 8,000 bushels do. at 13½d. bags, 400 bbls. flour to fill at 3s. 6d. and 1,800 bbls. do. at 3s. 9d., by steam, 24,000 bushels grain, at 14½d.; 300 packages provisions, at 6s. 9d. for bbls. and 9s. 6d. for tierces; 21,000 boxes cheese, at 60s. a 65s. To Glasgow, 23,600 bushels grain, at 13½d. a 13¾d., and 500 boxes bacon at 50s., steam. The charters comprise:—Two Norwegian brigs, with 1,100 and 1,200 quarters grain respectively, hence to Cork for orders and United Kingdom, at 9s. 6d.; an Italian bark, rechartered, with 3,300 quarters do., and a Norwegian bark, with 2,200 quarters do., both at 9s. 9d., same voyage; a Norwegian bark, with 4,000 quarters grain, same voyage, at 9s. 6d. and £15 gratuity; a Norwegian bark, hence to London, with 3,500 bbls. naphtha, at 8s. 3d.; a German bark of 421 tons register laid on berth for a general cargo to Antwerp; an Italian bark, hence to Palermo with 14,000 cases refined petroleum at 36c. and £8 gratuity; a Norwegian bark hence to a direct port on the Continent, with 2,300 quarters grain at 9s. 6d.; an American bark from Philadelphia to Amsterdam, with 4,000 bbls. refined petroleum at 8s.; a British bark from Philadelphia to the Continent, with 3,400 bbls. petroleum and products on private terms; an American bark of 550 tons register, hence to Gibraltar, with full cargo of tobacco at 50s.; an Italian bark of 300 tons register, hence to a direct port in the Mediterranean, with staves at current rates, and an American bark of about 350 tons register, hence to the north side of Cuba and back, general cargo, on private terms.

GUNNIES.—The market has been very quiet during the past three days, buyers purchasing only in small quantities to supply their immediate wants. Sales were reported of 125 rolls domestic cloth at 13½c., time and interest, and 100 bales do. at 13c. We quote:—Domestic cloth, 12¾c. for light and 13c. for heavy averages; Borneo and Gouripore, 13¼c. Bags dull and entirely nominal.

HEMP AND JUTE.—The market for hemp continued dull for all descriptions, but prices were not essentially changed. We quote:—Manila, 10⅜c., gold; Sisal, 9c., do.; dressed American, $200 a $225 for doubles; $180 a $190 for singles; undressed do., $115 a $120; Russia clean, $220 a $230, gold; Italian, $300 a $310, do. Jute was quiet, but steady, at 2⅝c. a 4⅜c., gold. Jute butts were dull. Small lots were placed at 1¾c., currency, cash.

HAY AND STRAW.—The demand has been fair for retail qualities, but other descriptions sold slowly. Prices were unchanged, and as follows:—Shipping hay, $1; retail qualities, $1 15c. a $1 50; Straw, 85c. a 90c. for long ryes; 65c. a 70c. for short do.; and 80c. a 85c. for oat.

HOPS.—There has been very little doing in hops during the past three days. Prices are somewhat irregular, and the few sales communicated were generally at the inside prices of the following quotations:—State, growth 1873, 43c. a 50c.; Eastern, do., 40c. a 45c.; Western, do., 42c. a 48c.; yearlings, crop 1872, 20c. a 25c.; Old olds, 8c. a 15c.; California, growth 1873, 50c. a 55c.; Bavarian, (nominally 48c.; English do., 42½c. a 45.

METALS.—There has been a trifle more doing in copper, but at very low figures for cash. Sales include 500,000 lbs. at 21c. a 21½c. for Baltimore and 24c. a 24½c. for lake. Iron of all descriptions continues very quiet. We quote Scotch pig firm at $40 a $48, according to brand; American No. 1, $40; No. 2, $32 a $34, and forge, $28 a $31. Lead is dull but steady; 7c. gold for foreign ordinary and 6⅝c. a 6⅞c. gold for domestic. Manufactured lead quoted at 9½c. for bar, 10½c. for sheet and pipe, and 16½c. for tin lined pipe less discount to the trade. Spelter dull at 7¼c. a 7½c. gold for Silesian. Tin very quiet and more or less nominal at 29½c. a 30c. for Straits, 27c. for English, and 33c. a 33½c. for Banca, all gold. Tin plates only moderately active and prices rather favoring buyers. We quote at $9 75 a $10 25 for charcoal tin, $7 75 a $8 25 for coke tin, $9 50 a $9 75 for charcoal terne, and $7 a $7 75 for coke terne, all gold.

MOLASSES.—The market continued dull. Small jobbing sales were made at prices within the range of the following figures. We quote:—Cuba, centrifugal and mixed, 18c. a 23c.; do. clayed, 26c. a 31c.; do. muscovado, refining, 27c. a 32c.; do. do., grocery, 33c. a 40c.; Porto Rico, 30c. a 55c.; English Islands, 30c. a 50c.; New Orleans, 60c. a 85c.

NAVAL STORES.—The low price ruling for spirits of turpentine has induced rather more inquiry and sales have been made of 150 bbls. at 40c., 25 bbls. at 40½c., 150 New York bbls. at 40½c. and 93 do. bbls. at 40c. Strained rosin appears to have a trifle firmer tone, though scarcely quotably higher; the demand, however, is mostly for small lots. Sales of 650 bbls. at $2 65 and 800 bbls. at $2 70. Tar and pitch are dull and nominally unchanged.

OILS.—The general market has been quiet since our last, but prices remained about the same. We quote:—Linseed, in casks, jobbing lots, 96c. a 97c.; sperm, $1 50 for crude, $1 68 a $1 70 for natural winter, $1 73 a $1 75 for bleached. Crude whale, 63c. for Northern, 57c. a 60c. for Southern, 68c. a 70c. for natural winter, 70c. a 72c. for bleached. Lard oils, 70c. a 72c. for ice made, 73c. for choice winter; Menhaden, 40c. Crude cotton seed, 45c. a 47½c., nominally.

PETROLEUM.—The market for refined was again easier to-day and more active. Sales of 3,000 bbls. October, at 16¼c., and rumored, 2,000 bbls., November, at 15⅜c. Cases dull and steady at about 21c. Naphtha quiet and weak at 9½c. a 10c. for city. Crude, in bulk, a trifle firmer but dull. Sale of 500 bbls., spot, at 5½c. Shipping crude quoted 10½c. a 10⅝c. At Philadelphia there was little if any oil offered for prompt delivery, and the market ruled steady at 15¾c. October, and 15⅝c. November. Later we heard of 600 bbls. naphtha sold here at 9½c.

PROVISIONS.—Receipts—Beef, 89 packages; cut meats, 680 do.; lard, 1,091 bbls. and tierces and 100 kegs. The pork market, at lower figures, was decidedly more active. The sales for prompt delivery were 1,000 bbls. Western steam at $14 50 a $15; 500 bbls. do., this month, $14 50 a $15; 50 bbls. Western prime mess at $15, and 75 bbls. old mess at $14 50. Dressed hogs were weak at 5½c. a 7c. Bacon was about steady, with sales of 2,000 boxes long and short clear at 7⅛c. a 7¼c. for December and January, and 250 boxes short clear, same delivery, at 7½c. Beef continued quiet and prices steady. In a jobbing way lots were placed to the amount of 40 packages at prices within the range of the following quotations:—Plain mess, bbls., $8 50 a $10; extra do., bbls., $10 a $12; prime do., tierces, $16 a $18; India do., tierces, $18 a $20. Beef hams remained neglected, yet prices were steady, within the range of $18 a $23 for common Southern to prime Western. Cut meats were in moderate request, and some descriptions were obtained at slightly easier prices. We heard of sales of 1,000 fresh bellies at 8c. a 8¼c.; 700 fresh shoulders at 5½c.; 1,500 pickled hams at 9c. a 9⅜c., and 1,200 pickled shoulders at 7⅛c. Lard was easier. The sales were 1,500 tierces Western steam, on the spot, at 8⅛c.; 250 do., new, at 8c.; 600 do., city, at 8c., and 85 do., kettle, at 8⅛c. Butter and cheese ruled about steady.

RICE.—Business in a jobbing way has been moderate at previous prices. The jobbing sales of Carolina were at 7⅛c. a 8⅛c., of Patna at 7⅛c. a 7⅝c. and of Rangoon at 6⅝c. a 6⅞c.

SUGAR.—The market for raw was fairly active on the basis of 7⅝c. a 7⅞c. per lb. The sales since yesterday's report foot up 1,600 hhds., partly good refining, at 7⅝c., and 850 boxes centrifugal at 8⅝c. Refined sugar was rather weak at 10⅛c. for A's and 10⅝c. for hards. We quote:—Cuba—Refining, interior to common, 6½c. a 7⅛c.; fair to good fair, 7⅝c. a 7⅝c.; good to prime, 7⅝c. a 7⅞c.; grocery, fair to good, 7⅞c. a 8⅛c.; prime to choice, 8⅛c. a 8⅝c.; centrifugal, hhds. and boxes, 8c. a 8⅞c.; melasses, hhds. and boxes, 6⅛c. a 7⅛c.; melado, 4c. a 5¼c. Havana—Boxes, Dutch standard, Nos. 7 to 9, 6⅞c. a 7⅛c.; do., 10 to 12, 7⅝c. a 8⅛c.; do., 13 to 15, 8⅝c. a 8⅞c.; do., 16 to 18, 9⅛c. a 9⅝c.; do., 19 to 20, 9⅞c. a 10⅛c.; white, 9¼c. a 10⅛c. Porto Rico—Refining, common to prime, 6⅝c. a 7⅝c.; grocery, fair to choice, 7⅝c. a 8⅜. Brazil—Dutch standard, Nos. 8 to 12, 6⅛c. a 7⅛c. Java—Dutch standard, Nos. 10 to 12, 7⅝c. a 8⅛c. Manila—Superior and extra superior, 6⅜c. a 7⅛c.

SEEDS.—The market for linseed remained inactive, and prices were nominal in the absence of sales. Clover was quiet, parties apart; held at 10c. a 10½c. Timothy dull, quoted at $3. Rough flax was quiet but firm; quoted at $2 10 a $2 20.

STEARINE has been in light demand but steady; sales of 10,000 lbs. No. 1 at 7⅞c.; prime quoted at 8⅜.

TALLOW fairly active and steady, with sales reported of 100 hhds. prime city at 7 9-16c., and 175,000 lbs. out of town stock at 7c. a 7 9-16c. for good to choice.

TOBACCO.—The market was quiet, without decided change in prices. The sales comprise 150 hhds. Kentucky, at from 6½c. to 13c., and, in seed leaf, 50 cases, 1870 sundries, at from 6½c. to 8c.; 50 do., 1871 do., at from 9c. to 50c.; 100 do., 1872, Connecticut and Massachusetts fillers and seconds, on private terms; 25 do., 1872, Ohio at 7c.; 50 do., 1872, Wisconsin on private terms, and 200 bales Havana at from 80c. to 95c.

WHISKEY.—Receipts, 607 bbls.; market firmer and moderately active; sales of 150 bbls. at 96½c., and 50 bbls. at 97c., delivered.

WOOL.—The market throughout is without animation; buyers are scarce and prices are wholly nominal. The sales comprise 10 bags super pulled at 46c., 10 bales Cape at 35c., 10 do. spring California at 30c., 7,000 lbs. Texas at 35c., 3,000 do. medium scoured fleece, 27 bales spring California, 50 bags combing pulled, 5,000 lbs. super do. and 25 bales Cape on private terms.

THE LITTLE WAIFS.

The Opening of the New Foundling Asylum.

A Substantial Reading of the Great Moral Truism, "Charity Begins at Home."

The new Foundling Asylum, on Sixty-eighth street, between Third and Lexington avenues under the charge of the Sisters of Charity, was thrown open for inspection yesterday and was visited by a very large number of ladies and gentlemen.

The Asylum buildings are built of Philadelphia brick, with sufficient Ohio stone bands and trimmings and white brick to give, through the most economical means, a rich and pleasing appearance to the entire structure. In the centre of the lot and facing on Sixty-eighth street is the administrative building, 90 feet wide by 60 feet deep and five stories high, exclusive of the basement. In the basement of this building are the kitchen for the community, the drawing rooms and offices. The creches for the reception of infants, being situated under the archway of the high double stoop leading to the main story, are easily accessible from the street. The main story contains the chief offices, reception rooms and parlors for visitors, the community room and an apartment for the resident physician. In the second story are the apartments for the Sisters and sewing and linen rooms; the third, fourth and fifth stories contain dormitories, and on the upper floor is an infirmary. To the north of and connected with this building will be the "chapel building," in the basement story of which will be the "run arounds" and play room; in the first story, a large room for school and exhibition purposes, and above this the chapel.

THE WARD ROOMS AND PAVILIONS.

On each side of these buildings, and parallel therewith, are to be the ward buildings, with large pavilions at each end, making the total length of each 164 feet. One of these buildings is now completed. It is three stories in height, exclusive of the basement, and placed a sufficient distance from the other two as to allow an ample free circulation of air and a full play of the sun's rays around it, to aid which the corridors connecting these buildings with each other, above the basement story, consist of open arched passages extending but one story in height. The ward rooms are to be each 30 by 90 feet. The south pavilion contains on each story one room for the Sister in charge of the adjoining ward, a linen storeroom, two private rooms and a closet and bathroom. The north pavilion likewise contains on each story the children's washroom, a small kitchen, a room for steam drying of linen, and a closet and bathroom for nurses. In the basement story, under the ward building, are the offices for the physicians, dispensaries, waiting-rooms, nurses' and sewing rooms, small kitchen, storerooms and closets.

THE LAUNDRIES AND GENERAL KITCHEN.

At the centre of the lot on Sixty-ninth street is being placed a two-story building, 31 feet deep and 90 feet front, to be connected by corridors with the ward building. In the first story will be placed the laundry, a steam drying room, an ironry, and a large kitchen for the general purposes of the establishment; in the basement cellar, an ice vault, storerooms, engineers' rooms and coal bins. The west side of the second story of this building will contain sleeping apartments for laundresses, servants, &c., and the entire eastern portion will be devoted to the purposes of a quarantine, thus completely isolating this portion of the establishment from the children's wards. The mortuary receiving vault will be in a portion of the cellar under the north end of the chapel building. The whole establishment is heated by steam, generated in tubular boilers, placed in a vault under the pavement on Sixty-ninth street, where are likewise the engine and pump which supply the reservoir tank placed at the highest part of the main building, whence the water is distributed to the upper stories, above the Croton level. Closets, baths, washbasins, &c., are conveniently located in each story of all the various buildings. The elevator is in the main building and near the main and private stairs.

THE HISTORY OF THE INSTITUTION.

The Foundling Asylum was organized on the 9th of October, 1869, at No. 3 North Washington square. The organization prospered and has grown stronger each year, until the Sisters now occupy one of the most comfortable buildings on the Island of Manhattan. It will be remembered that during last spring a grand matinée entertainment in behalf of this institution was given at the Academy of Music, and was attended by one of the largest audiences which ever assembled in that place of amusement.

An amateur performance is to be given at the Union Square Theatre, under the auspices of Mrs. Sheridan Shook, in aid of the funds of the asylum, on the afternoon of Wednesday next, October 29. This will, no doubt, realize a good sum, as there will be a large number of subscriptions for tickets that will not be sent in, while the house will, no doubt, be well filled in addition. The charity is so deserving of support that every plan devised for its benefit should be liberally seconded by the citizens of New York.

THE RECEPTION YESTERDAY.

The HERALD representative was yesterday conducted over the building by a Sister of Charity. The general playroom on the ground floor was first entered. It was warm, sunny and cheerful. A small kitchen in the rear of this room is for the preparation of children's food exclusively, and dumb waiters afford communication with each floor. On the second floor the reporter was conducted to the large nursery. The cots were of the cleanest. The children were bright and neither shy nor impudent. Near at hand are and six small tanks, in which the little fellows are washed. The great favorite of this ward, if not of the entire building, is little Arthur, a bright boy of about four, whom any one would be proud to own as his child. The third and fourth stories are arranged in a similar manner, each comprising a ward, and having its own matron and nurses. There are about 235 children in the institution. The doctor's office and the medicine rooms were found to be comfortable, while the parlors at present used as a chapel are as warm and comfortable as could be desired. A collation was served to all invited guests. Altogether the arrangement of the building and its management left a very pleasing impression on the visitors' minds.

THE BATHING ROOMS,

POLICE MATTERS.

The Board of Police Commissioners held a meeting yesterday afternoon, but the case of the detectives against whom charges are pending was not presented because Commissioner Gharlick was absent.

VERDICTS AGAINST THE CITY.

Another Street Paving Job---Interest on Advances to the City by the Tenth National Bank ---- Mementoes of the July Riots.

BUSINESS IN THE OTHER COURTS.

The National Life Insurance Company in Court—A Ten-Thousand-Dollar Salve for a Husband's Injured Feelings—Suit To Recover for Goods Sold Under Misrepresentation—Business in the General Sessions.

A striking exemplification of what prompt payment by the Comptroller of legal claims against the city would save the city in the item of interest, to say nothing of other expenses incurred in defending suits, is given in three trials yesterday before Judge Van Brunt, holding trial term of the Supreme Court. A report of the cases will be found below. It will be seen that the interest alone recovered in these suits amounted to nearly $25,000, all of which might have been saved to the city.

Judge Fancher yesterday appointed Eli Beard as receiver of the National Life Insurance Company of New York.

John Carr, who had been charged with having stolen, from the office of the Surveyor of the Port, a quantity of printed forms and blanks, similar to those used in relation to the landing and bonding of imported goods, appeared before Commissioner Shields yesterday and gave bail in the sum of $500 to appear and take his trial when called on.

In the United States District Court, yesterday, 1,748¾ yards of guipure lace, imported by the steamer Cimbria, and found at No. 16 Clinton place, were condemned by default, no claimant appearing.

A report prevailed in Wall street yesterday to the effect that the matter of the involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the firm of Kenyon, Cox & Co. (of which firm, it is alleged in the petition, Daniel Drew is a member) has been settled. A reporter made inquiries on the subject in the bankruptcy department of the United States District Court. The clerk in charge informed him that he had received no official notification of any such settlement, but that it often happens, in cases of this kind, when the proceedings are called up in Court, the parties on both sides state that a settlement has been effected, and there is then, of course, an immediate discontinuance of the suit.

Judge Benedict, who is holding United States Circuit Court at No. 27 Chambers street, is still engaged trying the case of Edward Lange, indicted for embezzling mail bags. The trial, which has now occupied four days, will be resumed this morning. It blocks the way of far more important and pressing business.

VERDICTS AGAINST THE CITY.

An Avenue Paving Job—Interest on Advances to the City by the Tenth National Bank—Memento of the July Riots.

It is the misfortune of this city in nearly all the suits brought against it to be defeated. This lame and impotent conclusion was strikingly illustrated in three cases tried yesterday in the Supreme Court before Judge Van Brunt. It is only fair, however, to state that Messrs. O. J. Dean and H. J. Forbes, the able and indefatigable assistants of the Corporation Counsel, used their utmost endeavors to protect the interests of the city and save themselves against defeat, but it was their misfortune to find the law and the facts too conclusive against them.

The first suit brought was that of George Moore for balance due on contract for paving Eighth avenue, between Forty-second and Fifty-eighth streets. The work was done in 1867, making an accumulation of six years' interest on the claim. An effort was made to show that the contract was not legally complied with through using a different kind of stone from that specified in the contract. The jury regarded it as a doubtful question, although Mr. John E. Parsons, the plaintiff's counsel, did his best to remove this doubt. The Judge, however, ordered a verdict for $5,200, the full amount claimed, including $1,400 interest, with direction to submit the verdict to the Supreme Court, General Term, for its final decision.

In 1871 the Tenth National Bank advanced $277,930 05 to the Department of Charities and Correction. The Comptroller, upon their endeavor to get the money repaid to them, expressed his willingness to pay the principal, but was inflexible in his refusal to pay interest. The bank finally agreed to accept the principal and waive all claim to interest. A bird in the hand, and particularly one of this gigantic proportions, was better than two in the bush, and particularly as the latter was a mere fledgling at best. But this fledgling grew, and the bank concluded they would not yield the case so easily, and so they brought suit to recover $21,911 interest. Ex-Judge Edmonds and Abraham R. Lawrence, Jr., fought the case with their usual legal skill. The main point was that the Comptroller sprung a trap on the bank, which he had no business to do, and that, waiver or no waiver, the interest was due and should be paid. Messrs. Dean and Forbes insisted on the waiver. Judge Van Brunt decided for the bank, and directed a verdict for the full amount claimed.

The concluding suit of the day was that brought by Charles W. Underhill, administrator of Mary Underhill, for $699 72, for lumber destroyed on Avenue C, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, during the riots in July, 1863. Mr. John Henry Hull appeared for the plaintiff, and made out the case as so clearly a legal claim against the city that a verdict was ordered for $1,393 89, being the full amount of the claim, with interest.

BUSINESS IN THE OTHER COURTS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Receiver of the National Life Insurance Company.

Before Judge Fancher.

Mr. John Wild, one of the stockholders of the National Life Insurance Company of New York, presented a petition yesterday for the appointment of a receiver for the company. The petition was based upon the report of the State Insurance Department that the company's reserve had been impaired to the extent of $160,000. Judge Fancher appointed Eli Beard as receiver, and ordered a bond for $100,000 to be filed by the receiver.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—PART 2.

Action for the Seduction of a Wife.

Before Judge Loew.

Theodore Favre vs. Maximo N. Monvoisin.—This was an action against the defendant, charging him with seducing the plaintiff's wife. The parties are natives of France. The plaintiff has long carried on in this city the business of dressing furs and skins. In January, 1869, he took the defendant into copartnership with him. The parties lived in adjoining houses, near their place of business. Defendant's wife fell a victim to intemperance, which resulted in their separation, after which he and his little daughter, a girl about five years of age, shared the table of the plaintiff's family. The two families were very intimate, and everything seemed to move on smoothly until the night of the 7th of October, 1871, when plaintiff discovered his wife leaving defendant's apartments under such circumstances as to excite his gravest suspicions of her fidelity. Plaintiff at once accused his wife of unchasteness to him, refused to longer live under the same roof with her, and at once broke off all business relations with defendant. This suit was soon afterwards commenced, and the defendant arrested. He lay in Ludlow Street Jail some four months, being unable to procure bail. The case has been on trial several [illegible] Yesterday, at the close of the evid[illegible] made an able addres[illegible] days. [illegible] A. S. Sullivan [illegible] to the jury on behalf of the defendant, followed by Mr. Henry L. Clinton in a most touching appeal to the jury on behalf of the plaintiff. In the course of his summing up he cited the testimony of the plaintiff as to the circumstances under which he discovered his wife's guilt, the communications subsequently made to him by his own children as to the improper conduct of his wife, the proof given by impartial and disinterested witnesses, showing that after plaintiff had discovered his wife's infidelity and had refused to live under the same roof with her, she and the defendant had lived together as man and wife; the admissions of the defendant on the witness stand that he lived with her until, at the suit of the plaintiff, he was arrested and sent to Ludlow Street Jail, where he remained four months.

Mr. Clinton closed an eloquent address with a most affecting appeal to the sympathies of the jury.

After a brief charge from Judge Loew the jury retired, and after a few moments' deliberation rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $10,000.

MARINE COURT—PART I.

Verdict for Value of Goods Obtained Upon False Representation.

Before Judge Gross.

Levy vs. Peiser.—The plaintiff, a wholesale clothier, claims that in April, 1872, the defendant visited his store, accompanied by his sons, selected a quantity of clothing, amounting in value to $234, for his sons' business (M. Peiser & Bro.), and on plaintiff's demurring to the giving of credit to the sons defendant said, "My sons are a great deal better than me" and that, knowing defendant to be a man of wealth, he thereupon gave the credit to the sons on this representation; that some time after he learned that at the very time of this purchase a suit was pending by the father against his sons for money he had loaned them in their business, which subsequently resulted in the sons' place of business being sold out by the Sheriff. This suit is brought, therefore, against the father on the ground that the credit was obtained through this wilful misrepresentation on his part. The defendant totally denies the above state of facts, denies being present at any purchase of goods, and in this is supported by his sons, who say they made the purchase on their own account. The Court charged the jury that before a verdict could be rendered for plaintiffs they must find that these representations claimed were made by the father, that they were untrue, and were known by him to be untrue when made. Verdict for plaintiff for full amount claimed.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Assaults with Knives—The Prisoners Sent to the State Prison for Five Years.

Before Recorder Hackett.

The first part of the session yesterday was occupied in the trial of Joseph Hartnett, charged with stabbing John Burke, at a liquor saloon upon Third avenue, on the 21st of September. One of the wounds inflicted by the accused was in the region of the heart, and the physician stated that for some time Burke's life was in danger. A verdict of guilty of an assault, with intent to do bodily harm, was rendered. His Honor, in passing sentence, said that if he had been on the jury he would have convicted Hartnett of an assault with intent to kill. The prisoner admitted, upon the cross-examination of District Attorney Rollins, that he served a term of imprisonment for counterfeiting, and that he had been indicted for being concerned in a shooting affray. The Recorder sent him to the State Prison for five years.

Patrick Hadagan was also tried and found guilty of a similar crime, the charge against him being that, on the 13th of August, he united with James McGuire in attacking Daniel McCaulley at 522 West Fifty-first street. The complainant swore that, without giving Hadagan any provocation, he cut him with a carving knife, inflicting a dangerous wound. He was sentenced to the State Prison for the term of five years.

Burglary.

George Mott and George Jones, charged with burglariously entering the premises of William E. Duryea, No. 126 East Twenty-sixth street, on the 10th of September, and stealing spoons valued at $5, pleaded guilty to an attempt. They were each sent to the State Prison for two years and six months.

Grand Larceny.

James Hughes and Patrick McGrath, indicted for stealing $370 in money and $100 worth of jewelry from Mary O'Day on the 1st of September, were remanded for sentence.

An Acquittal.

Michael Kane and Peter McGuire were tried upon a charge of felonious assault and battery, James Lynch alleging that on the night of the 24th of August he was beaten with clubs about the head by the defendants. The evidence developed the fact that there was a tenement house row, and as the statements of the witnesses were very contradictory, the jury rendered a verdict of acquittal.

JEFFERSON MARKET POLICE COURT.

The Early-Closing Association.

For some time past threatening demonstrations have been made towards certain stores on Eighth avenue, whose proprietors have refused to comply with the demands of the Early-Closing Association. Among these is the establishment of Ehrich & Co., Nos. 287 and 289 Eighth avenue, the owners of which, as they state, so far complied with the demands of the association as to close their dry goods department at seven o'clock, but have kept open for the sale of fancy goods. A special policeman has been detached to keep his eye upon this and one or two other stores. On Monday evening a crowd of fifteen or sixteen persons passed in front of the store when one of them, whose name subsequently proved to be John O'Shaunessey, threw two stones through the window, inflicting considerable damage and destroyed a plate glass valued at $500. He was observed by Officer Batcher, of the Sixteenth precinct, who had been detailed for the special duty, and who immediately pursued and arrested him. When arraigned before Justice Fowler, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday afternoon, Colonel Spencer, who had been retained by the Early Closing Association, appeared for the prisoner, and Mr. Gardner for the prosecution. The case was held open for further examination, and O'Shaunessey was bailed to appear.

BROOKLYN COURTS.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

An Editor's Contumacy—Newspaper Office Rules Not To Be Violated.

Before Judge Gilbert.

Mr. W. F. G. Shanks, a New York newspaper editor, was a witness before the Grand Jury yesterday, and was questioned as to the authorship of a certain article, which appeared in his journal last August, entitled "The Brooklyn Ring's Method." He peremptorily declined to divulge the name of the author, whereupon District Attorney Britton applied to Judge Gilbert to compel him to answer. Mr. Britton said that he had inquired of Mr. Shanks whether the latter would criminate himself by answering the question and Mr. Shanks said that he would not, but that he declined to answer on general principles. Mr. Britton contended that the law required witnesses before the Grand Jury to answer questions put to them, and that the regulations of a newspaper office ought not to be sufficient to set the rule of law aside.

Judge Gilbert addressed Mr. Shanks, saying that the law would not compel him to answer if it would criminate himself, but where only other parties would be criminated by his replies he was bound to answer. The Judge knew of no law which exempted a journalist from answering questions put to him by the Grand Jury, the only exceptions in such cases being clergymen, lawyers and doctors. Mr. Shanks would, therefore, have to answer the question.

The District Attorney and the editor then went back to the Grand Jury room, but what took place there has not transpired.

COURT OF SESSIONS.

The Havana Bank Robbery.

Before Judge Moore.

The two Spaniards, Antonio Ineray Alvarez and Enrique Caceres, who were indicted on the charge of having robbed the Commercial Bank of Havana, were arraigned yesterday afternoon. Mr. S. D. Morris, their counsel, entered a plea of "not guilty," and asked for some time to examine the indictment against the prisoners, which is quite a lengthy one.

Assistant District Attorney Cullen urged as speedy a trial as possible.

The case was postponed until Tuesday next, when it is expected the trial will proceed.

CITY COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Decisions.

By Judge Neilson.

Earle et al vs. Engs.—The plaintiffs, carrying stock for the defendant as his brokers, had the right to put an end to the relation of the notice given. As the defendant did not improve the marginal security or remove his account and the sale was pursuant to the notice and regular, the defendant was chargeable with the loss. Judgment for plaintiff.

Sullivan vs. Sullivan.—Judgment of divorce.

In Re Newton.—The assessment [illegible] property ill[illegible] imposed [illegible] upon the petitioner's [illegible]

Lawe vs. Lawe.—[illegible] Judgment of divorce granted.

[illegible] vs. Krebs.—The like.

Stenson vs. Marks.—The defendant was guilty of a gross and indecent assault on the plaintiff. Judgment for her damages $500, with cost.

STOKES' THIRD TRIAL.

New and Important Testimony for the Defence.

Had Fisk a Pistol in His Possession on the Day of the Shooting?—And What Then?

HIS ALLEGED THREATS AGAINST STOKES.

A New Story of Fisk's Appearance at the Grand Central Hotel.

THE PROCEEDINGS YESTERDAY.

The case of The People against Stokes for the shooting of James Fisk, Jr., was resumed yesterday. As the trial proceeds the old interest arises among those who make celebrated criminal cases their objective point—not caring to be in at the start, but sure to witness the finale, whether it be to congratulate the prisoner upon his acquittal or to exclaim "It served him right!" in the case of a verdict of guilty. These curiosity mongers are, as a general thing, content with either result, leaning, perhaps, more to the tragic, as it affords them a better field for a display of feeling. There was quite a large attendance of this class yesterday, who sat the proceedings out from the opening to the close. Generally the attendance was also larger, and an increased interest is evident, in anticipation of evidence which, the defence claims, will throw a very different aspect upon the case, as it will be presented to the Court and jury, from that upon which former verdicts were predicated. The effect of the new evidence on the spirits of the prisoner, too, was perceptible, and he wore a more animated and hopeful expression of countenance yesterday morning than ever before, if we except the first few days of the second trial, when he calculated on an acquittal as certain. His relatives also seemed to anticipate better things from the introduction of ex-Deputy Sheriff Logan's testimony. The hopes of the defence were further heightened by the testimony of another new witness, who swore that he saw Fisk press into his pocket a pistol while he (witness) was an employe of the Erie Railway, and happened to look into the wash room at the Grand Opera House. Although subjected to a lengthy cross-examination his testimony stood unimpeached.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS—TESTIMONY OF MR. PITTS.

Isaiah F. Pitts, a young man formerly employed by the Erie Company, and now doing business at No. 66 Cortlandt street, sworn as the first witness—He knew Colonel Fisk, and used to see him frequently; on one particular occasion, in the washroom of the Erie office, I saw Mr. Fisk press a pistol into a pistol pocket, or into a pocket in the rear of his coat; I was in the doorway at the time, so that I could see him plainly.

To the District Attorney—I did make an affidavit, I think, some time during the last month.

Mr. Russell here demanded the affidavit, and Mr. Tremain said peremptorily that he couldn't have it.

Witness—I am now living at No 1,504 Dean street Brooklyn, near Bedford street; I used to go into Colonel Fisk's room in the Erie office very often with messages, when I saw the pistol, which was white handled on one side and black on the other; it was some time in 1871; I had been sent with a message to Major Hitchcock from Mr. E. B. Hill, and looked into the washroom as I passed and saw Colonel Fisk in there; I started to go in, but did not and passed on; I stood at the door, though, for about two seconds; my room was on the third floor of the Grand Opera House, as was also Mr. Hill's; Hitchcock's apartment fronted toward Twenty-third street, on the north side of the building, on the second floor; there was no necessity for passing the washroom on my way back from delivering the message to Major Hitchcock; I did so; I don't know why, but, having plenty of time to spare, did so; my attention was first attracted to the wash room by hearing a door slam; Colonel Fisk was standing half way between the door and window when I saw him; he was buttoning his suspenders; his coat and vest were unbuttoned; I only saw the pistol in his hand; I saw it first in the left hand and then in his right; he took it from under his arm; he took it then in his left and passed it to his right hand, and thence into his pocket; his right side was towards the door and, consequently towards me, as I was standing at the door; as he stood there I saw the end protruding beyond the contour of his arm; the pistol had one barrel and chambers.

The witness described minutely at least a dozen times in what way Colonel Fisk handled and put away the weapon.

Witness—I am with my father in the cooperage business; my father is in my employ; I bought the business from my father; sometimes I have other employes; I first communicated to the counsel for the defence that I saw Fisk have a pistol about two or three months ago; a gentleman called at my place and told me to go and see counsel Dos Passos; I suppose counsel learned of what I knew through my having told a number of parties I know; one party was a Mr. Hatch, of the firm of Hatch, Allen & Smith.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN ROCKWELL.

John Rockwell, head porter at the Grand Central Hotel, next sworn—Mr. Crockett, clerk of the hall, directed me on the day of the shooting to go into the parlor and search for a pistol; I went into parlor 217 and searched the chairs and sofa thoroughly, but could see nothing; I also searched up and down the hall after leaving the parlor, but unsuccessfully.

TESTIMONY OF THE MOSS FAMILY LAUNDRESS.

Adeline Barker, an old woman residing at No. 64 Leroy street, formerly lived in No. 66, same street, in December, 1871; lived at No. 92 King street, and was at the rooms of the Moss family at the Grand Central Hotel when I saw Colonel Fisk in that month; the two Misses Moss were present when he came in; I took home some clothes that I washed for the ladies, and after asking the way I entered their room; while the young ladies were talking to a visitor at the door Fisk entered and I stepped back in the apartment; one of the ladies asked Fisk what had detained him, and he replied that

THE SUITS WITH STOKES WERE GETTING RED HOT, and he would soon send him before a higher court than he had ever been to; he would wipe him out and shoot him as sure as his name was James Fisk; Miss Moss exclaimed, "Oh, don't shoot him; don't you think of the gallows?" and Fisk rejoined that there was no gallows would ever be built for Jim Fisk.

Witness added to her testimony on cross-examination that Fisk kissed both the young Moss girls before sitting down; she was not in the habit of noticing trifles generally, but she noticed the kissing, as she thought it was great familiarity on his part.

In answer to a request to repeat her direct testimony she did so, adding that Fisk also exclaimed "I'll kill him, I'll kill him like a ferocious dog."

Q. Did not the young ladies say anything while Fisk was going on with his tirade against Stokes? A. I heard one of them say, "Oh you are jealous of your colossal beauty." (Laughter.) He called him a cur, saying he would play with him as a cat plays with a mouse, and would wipe him out, as he went prepared for him, at the same time putting his hand behind his back; I left Fisk behind me still threatening.

Mr. Tremain—On the last trial this evidence was ruled out, was it not?

Witness—Yes, sir.

Mr. Russell objected, and moved that the answer be struck out. However, it was allowed to pass.

Witness—When Fisk said he'd shoot Stokes he put his hand behind his back, and, in addition to what I have testified to, said, "I have a little rascal here for him."

The District Attorney—Why did you not tell me about the little rascal? A. Well, I did not think of it; I may later remember even more that was said that does not occur to me this moment.

JAMES A. BYRNES ON THE STAND.

James A. Byrnes, residing at the St. James Hotel, sworn. This gentleman was a new witness. He remembers seeing Fisk at the Grand Opera House in November, 1871; he knew Fisk personally, and between the acts met him in the barroom; Fisk was with others; he heard him mention Stokes' name; he said that he had got all the money Stokes had and would wipe him out so that he wouldn't leave a grease spot behind; witness communicated the above to the prisoner two or three nights after the threats were made; Stokes replied that he feared for his life.

To the District Attorney—I am a son of Mr. Byrnes, the builder; I was born in this city and have resided at the St. James since I came from Saratoga.

Witness was shown Stokes' pistol and asked if he had not seen it in the prisoner's possession. A. No sir, I never did; am positive on this point.

Henry R. Sadler sworn—Said he went at the request of counsel for the defence to the Grand Central Hotel to make some observations; he went there with a Mr. Moore, and the latter stood in the centre of the hall on the second floor while witness took up a position on the ladies' staircase, where the boy Redmond said he stood, and looked up; he could not see his friend to recognize him, obtaining only a view of his body half way up; he went into the parlor and tried to look up Broadway from the windows, and ascertained the most favorable view could be obtained from parlor No. 207.

George A. Moore corroborated the evidence of the previous witness.

A NEW WITNESS TESTIFIES.

Mary Bean, of No. 326 Thirty-first street, testified that she had been at service with the married daughter of W. M. Tweed—Mrs. Maginnis—in New Orleans; witness became acquainted with Colonel Fisk at Long Branch, in the summer of 1870; saw Fisk repeatedly; on the 6th of January, 1872, I was near the ladies' entrance of the Grand Central Hotel and saw Colonel Fisk enter; in about a minute or two he came out with an excited air and flushed face; I then saw him thrust his hand behind him and draw a pistol; he placed both hands on the weapon, pushed his cloak a little aside and rushed in again through the entrance of the ladies' stairs; immediately almost after this I heard two reports of a pistol.

This witness did not testify on either of the former trials, but made an affidavit, which was read on the application made for a new trial.

The witness was cross-examined for three-quarters of an hour, but did not commit herself, after which she said that she did not wish to divulge what she knew prior to the conviction of the prisoner, because her husband told her that if she did she would be locked up; after the second trial she found Mr. Tremain's address and found him to tell what she knew.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES BRENNAN.

James Brennan, of 524 West Twenty-sixth street, was a witness for the prosecution in the case of Dunn, the House of Refuge boy who stabbed his keeper, and was in the House of Detention at the time the boys Redmond and Hart were confined there; he became acquainted with them, and learned on the first day of his acquaintance with them that they were witnesses in the Stokes case; he had repeated conversations with the boys; Thomas Hart told him that he knew nothing about the shooting, and was in another part of the hotel when it occurred; he said also that a person had offered him $1,000 if he would swear as he was told; witness told him to look out or he would be sent to State Prison, whereupon Hart retorted that he didn't care, as he had the biggest people of New York at his back; was in the House of Detention when the witness Gill was there.

To the District Attorney—I went to the House of Detention from the House of Refuge.

Q. What were you sent there for?

Objected to. Objection overruled.

Witness—I was sent there for [illegible] and exception.

Q. From whom did you [illegible] stealing a watch.

Objected to also. [illegible] steal the watch?

Witness [illegible] Objection overruled.

[illegible] from a friend of my father; I don't remember his name.

Q. When did you steal the watch?

Objected to. Objection overruled.

Witness—It was on the 15th of November, at Apollo Hall; I had been playing cards with Thomas Hart on the day he told me what I've said, in the reception room; I asked him what he knew, and he replied, "Nothing much;" that he was in the closet cleaning a globe, when he heard two shots; he then ran out and met Stokes, who said there was a man shot; he suspected soon after that Stokes must have done the shooting, and ran after him and procured his arrest; I was sworn on the last trial; my real name is Thomas Casey; I went to the House of Refuge under the alias of James Brennan; in 1866 I went to the House of Refuge for stealing; I remained there until 1858 and then went to my aunt's; on the 16th of May, 1867, I believe I was in Jefferson Market on suspicion of burglary; I was sent from there to the Tombs; next I went to the General Sessions, then back to the Tombs and from thence to the Island.

Q. Are you the same Thomas Casey who was tried on the 1st of June, 1871, at the General Sessions, for burglary?

Objected to as immaterial and collateral. Objection overruled.

Witness—I am the same person.

Q. And convicted and sent to the Penitentiary? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Russell here offered the record of the conviction of the prisoner as evidence. It was objected to, but counsel for defence wanted time to examine the record.

Mr. Russell said that he wanted the witness watched during recess, as he was an ex-convict.

Mr. Tremain—Who are you going to get to watch him?

The Assistant District Attorney replied that he hoped, by aid of the Court, to have the witness placed in the custody of an officer.

This was ordered by the Court and a recess was then ordered for half an hour.

AFTER RECESS.

When the Court had reassembled Brennan or Casey was placed again on the stand and was re-examined by counsel for the defence.

In the re-examination but little of importance or interest was brought out.

After they had finished with the witness Mr. Tremain remarked that he would probably desire to ask some more questions of the witness, and desired that he should not leave the Court.

His Honor said that Brennan must be kept in custody, and when the Court adjourned he must be removed to the Tombs.

Samuel McLoughlin testified that on one occasion he and the prisoner left the Hoffman House in company. Stokes pointed out two men who he said were after him, trying to kill him and that it was Fisk sent them; Stokes was wild; he appeared crazy about it and he asked witness to get a coach for him; then he pulled out his gun. (Here the prisoner smiled.) The witness said he meant pistol.

Marianna Williams, who was waiting in an adjoining room, was next called to the stand. She was dressed in black and carried a brown fan, which she kept incessantly in motion. She testified that she lived with her cousin, Mrs. Mansfield, at No. 359 East Twenty-third street, in January, 1872; the prisoner called one day, and in presence of witness Mrs. Mansfield communicated to him threats made by Fisk, that there would be blood shed—that he would kill Stokes unless she went to Judge Bixby's Court to give evidence against Stokes. Fisk used to carry a pistol and when he came to Mrs. Mansfield's house would take it out and lay it on the mantel. Witness heard Fisk ask Mrs. Mansfield to renew her relations with him, and he threatened to kill Stokes if she didn't.

Cross-examined—What do you mean by relations? A. She lived in the same house with him.

Q. Why should he threaten to kill Stokes? A. Because he was jealous of him.

In reply to further questions witness said she first met Stokes at the Continental Hotel, in Philadelphia; after that she came to live with Mrs. Mansfield, and Stokes used to call in company with Fisk; he also called without Fisk; not very often; sometimes in the evening; Mrs. Mansfield sent Fisk's things away; she ceased to live there; after that Fisk called to see Mrs. Mansfield, and said he was jealous of Stokes and would remove him, and witness told this to Stokes; at present witness lives in Second avenue, nearly opposite St. Mark's church.

William L. Drummond testified that while the prisoner was living with him, in 1871, suspicious parties used to loiter around the house, and the annoyance was very great; Stokes expressed apprehensions of danger from these parties.

The testimony of Mrs. Mansfield, as taken at the first trial, was here read by Mr. Brainard.

Mr. Dorman B. Eaton, former counsel to the Erie Railroad, repeated his testimony as to his attempted assassination, and the Court adjourned.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT.

Pursuant to a call of the Mayor this Board met yesterday afternoon, at half-past three o'clock, Mayor Havemeyer in the chair. Present—The Comptroller, Mr. John Wheeler, and Mr. S. B. H. Vance, the President of the Board of Aldermen. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

The Comptroller offered a resolution requesting authority to issue assessment bonds to the amount of $300,000, to provide for claims arising on the Board of Public Works, which was adopted.

Another resolution was offered by the Comptroller, asking for power to issue $2,000,000 street improvement bonds, under section 3, chapter 755, Laws of 1873, to run no longer than five years, to cover the debt falling due November 1, 1873. Eight thousand six hundred and forty-six dollars was appropriated for the purpose of paying the clerks engaged in extending and copying the tax rolls in accordance with a resolution of the Supervisors passed October 13, 1873; $22,000 was appropriated from the appropriation for Observatory, Museum and Gallery of Art—Maintenance and government of—and Harlem River bridges, &c., to the head of "Maintenance and Government of Parks and Places."

Mr. Vance proposed that the sum of $2,000 be appropriated to the Five Points from the moneys received from licenses for the sale of liquor, which was referred to the Corporation Counsel for his opinion.

The Comptroller offered a motion that the entire subject of appropriation to charitable institutions for the year 1873 be referred to a special committee of three to report a plan, which was adopted.

Mayor Havemeyer spoke in favor of maintaining these noble public institutions, which supply the poor with medicines free of charge, and unless they are supported by the city the dispensaries will have to be closed.

A mandamus served upon the Board by the publisher of the Sunburst for pay of claim for advertising was referred to the Corporation Counsel.

The Board then adjourned.

GOLD REMAINS STEADY notwithstanding the Bank of England has raised the rate of discount to seven per cent in order to check the flow of the precious metal hither. If the balance of trade were not as favorable to us as it is such action on the part of the Bank would have a greater effect upon the gold market, particularly as the premium came down so recently. The fluctuations are small and only a few fractions during the day. No better evidence could be afforded of the favorable state of trade and the flattering prospect during the remainder of the fall season.

A NATIONAL CONVENTION OF FIREMEN has been in session for a day or two in Baltimore—a convention highly to be commended, its objects being the protection of human lives and property. An occasional national convention of this sort should be encouraged by all our great cities.

Senator Boutwell on Finance and the Panic—A Political Speech on Economic Principles.

Senator Boutwell's lecture last night was more an apology for his financial policy than an exposition of the important subject he was announced to discuss. In this connection we use the word "apology" in that higher sense that would enable the Senator, if he chose, to call his lecture his Apologia. Before entering upon a discussion of any of the particular questions evolved by Mr. Boutwell we may characterize the effort as singularly wanting in suggestiveness, comprehensiveness and vigor. This was to have been expected, for in these respects his apology is eminently characteristic of the Treasury Department under his administration. There was nothing broad or grand in his financial policy. But he had a financial policy, nevertheless, and it is in some measure from the effects of that policy that the country is suffering to-day. It was in other quarters that the Senator looked for the disease, and he seemed to think the remedy was centred in the following of the course he had adopted as Secretary of the Treasury.

In beginning his lecture Mr. Boutwell laid down three propositions as the basis of the remarks he was about to make:—

1. A declaration in favor of a resumption of specie payments, qualified by the avowal that the only meaning properly attaching to the word "resumption" is the equality in value of currency with coin.

2. A declaration that there was a point beyond which paper could not be issued in any country and specie payments sustained, qualified by the assertion that the point is not capable of mathematical demonstration.

3. There can be no resumption while the balance of trade is against us, or at least not until the conditions were more nearly equal than at present.

These were the Senator's principles of political economy, but under the circumstances he called them by a much more felicitous term. They were the "pivots" upon which his argument turned, and as it turned out they were only pivots for a political discussion. He simply hinged upon them ingenious but faulty sympathy for protection, ship building and a revival of commerce by subsidies, annual government interference in financial affairs, especially in Wall street, owing to the "exigencies of the autumn" and the necessity for moving the crops, and above all his favorite theory that the Secretary of the Treasury can reissue a part of the $44,000,000 reserve if he thinks it necessary and play the pranks of the amateur financier and buchu banker whenever he chooses to forget his proper functions and meddle with affairs with which he has no concern.

Mr. Boutwell's position upon the question of protection was the funniest thing in his lecture. There was genuine humor in it. In the first place, he was in favor of protection, not because he liked it, but because, though it came as an accident of the war, it had made everybody rich and happy. As a matter of course he said nothing concerning the many "protected" articles which bring not a dollar into the Treasury and only serve to rob the people to enrich the manufacturer. Even if protection is the beneficent principle Mr. Boutwell affects to regard it this side of its practical operation ought to be denounced as injustice and impoverishment. But the Senator evidently does not believe in protection as a principle of political economy, but only as a political plank in a partisan platform. While he sees blessings without number flowing in upon the country as the result of high tariff duties, he points to other blessings equally beneficent as the result of no tariff duties at all. Congress upon his recommendation, we believe, certainly with his encouragement and support, made an exception in a particular case, and took the duties off all articles which enter into the building of a ship. The same articles enter into the construction of a wagon—the ship of the Plains and the interior—but if they are used to make a wagon they pay duty. This neat and beneficent little provision applies only to a few shipbuilders, and so high tariffs are made to enrich a few manufacturers, and exemption from any tariff at all is made to enrich a few more manufacturers. This is, indeed, a very pretty joke; but then Mr. Boutwell always was a joker when he was at the head of the Treasury, and he seems not to have lost his exquisite sense of humor now that he is in the Senate and feels called upon to explain his practical jokes outside of the Senate.

We have already referred to Mr. Boutwell's position in favor of subsidies to shipbuilders. It is the one position he assumed during the evening upon which we feel any real concern. His plan is not likely to have any real efficacy, and it is extremely dangerous as opening the way to subsidies of every kind and frauds not less stupendous than the immense land grabs of the last few years obtained from Congress as necessary aids in building railways. Even in its most confined application it would only inure to the benefit of the few ship yards building iron ships which have been so long looking to Congressional bounty, as more important than any real benefit to American workers on ships. While speaking upon this branch of the question Mr. Boutwell took occasion to declare that we needed no navy to protect our own coasts, and that the only use of ships of war in foreign waters was "to show our flag." We need not enter into any serious discussion of this question, especially at a time when a few wretched Spanish officials at Havana think themselves strong enough to constantly insult the American people because the United States have no navy. Mr. Boutwell, it seems, would spend the people's money by the dollar and save it by the cent.

Much that Mr. Boutwell had to say upon the question of the national banks is worthy of serious consideration. Especially is this the case in regard to his reprobation of banks paying interest on deposits. The country bank which pays interest to depositors must, as Mr. Boutwell says, look to the city banks for reimbursement, and the city banks in turn are compelled to lean upon mere speculators in stocks or the uncertain securities of the gamblers of the street. But we cannot sympathize with those of the Senator's ideas which contemplate increase in the number of our national banks and, consequently, of the volume of the currency. The whole thing, we fear, is rotten at bottom, and, if it were not for the wise moderation of the people and the high estimation of the credit of the government, the national bank system would fall of its own weight. The national banks generally have not capital sufficient to make money in legitimate business, and, in truth, they have no real capital at all. Coin is the only real capital, and so resumption is the one thing needful. We are disposed to agree with Mr. Boutwell that the resumption cannot be forced, but if it comes as he desires it, by currency becoming equal to coin, we hope the currency will be retired and coin allowed to take its place. Resumption is simply the ability to buy gold with paper on equal terms, and with our present redundant circulation it seems impossible that this should be attainable.

On another important question we differ from and with Mr. Boutwell. He believes in the power of the government to reissue a part, or even the whole, of the forty-four million dollars reserve in an emergency. If he simply regarded it as an abstract legal proposition we would have no serious objections to urge against his view, and would be ready to join with him in seeking the withdrawal of the power. But he looks upon a temporary reissue not only as a right, but as an occasional duty—not as an increase of the volume of the currency, he says—not "permanently;" and if he had only been a little more frank he would have said, only for the purpose of controlling operations in Wall street. In keeping with this are his notions about "the exigencies of the autumn" and moving the crops. The whole thing must mean that the hand of the Secretary of the Treasury is to be felt in every "pool" and to smooth every "corner." In other words, Mr. Richardson and his successors are to be the chief buchu financiers of the country—currency doctors, with as little knowledge of finance as buchu doctors have of physic. We saw similar logic to these latest enunciations of Mr. Boutwell practically applied by him in the famous syndicate transactions. We have also seen enough of the meddling with business on the part of the Secretary of the Treasury for the purpose of helping to move the crops owing to "the exigencies of the autumn." We want no more syndicates and no more autumnal exigencies, and we further want to see no Cabinet officer playing his little game with the forty-four million dollars reserve.

Mr. Boutwell's effort was scarcely worthy of him; and yet had he been much more eloquent he could not better have explained his own policy and that of his successor in the Treasury Department. We thank him for this, for we hope it will lead the country to insist upon something better than either he or Mr. Richardson has to offer as a remedy for panics.

Prince Napoleon as a Pretender.

Whatever may result to Prince Napoleon in his new departure in French politics, he is too great a man—from his name, his relationship to the great Emperor and his representative association with the politics of France—to be underrated or overlooked. The brilliant letter which we print to-day from our special correspondent in Paris is a contribution to the contemporary history of France as valuable as Carlyle's portrait of Mirabeau or Macaulay's essay on Warren Hastings. It may be truly said that we knew nothing of Mirabeau until Carlyle dug him out of the rubbish and slime of the French Revolution and painted him in his greatness and his power—what was small and weak and corrupt, his lion look, the face pitted with disease, and that resonant eloquence which awoke the spirit of freedom in France and threw defiance at a king. As to Hastings, he was a name—something less than a name—a shadow, darkened by the angry, persistent eloquence of Burke—until Macaulay, with his matchless skill, made him one of the best known men in history. What has been done to Mirabeau and Hastings the HERALD essays to do this morning with Prince Napoleon. We commend our letter from Paris as a masterpiece, well worth the careful study of all who care to follow the wonderful events now transpiring over the seas, and to know the men who, for good or evil, have the destiny of France in their hands.

Another Slip Up in the Kelsey Case—The Duty of the Governor.

It seems that the Coroner's investigation into the circumstances attending the cruel outrage upon and the very probable diabolical murder of Charles G. Kelsey, in Huntington, L. I., has been again postponed, making the third or fourth time that a postponement, upon some flimsy pretext or other, has taken place in this remarkable case. Now, in view of the egregious imbecility (or something worse) exhibited by the Huntington authorities in this affair, we hold it to be the duty of the Governor to take it altogether out of their hands and place it in those of the legal officers of the State who have jurisdiction in the premises. It is a matter in which not only the inhabitants of an obscure village have an interest, but one which, affecting as it does society at large, concerns every citizen in the State. Hence the proposition for the Governor to take action on the subject is clearly justifiable. The trumpery story that Kelsey has been found alive in California is too ridiculous to be credited for a moment. It is a transparent effort on the part of the alleged guilty parties to gain further time in order to spirit away important witnesses or to allow the public indignation in regard to the heartless transaction to subside. Let us have some State action in the matter. The sooner the better.

ENGLAND STILL ENCROACHING ON OUR COMMERCIAL DOMAIN.—We learn through our telegrams fro[illegible] Mexico that the first vessel of a new monthly li[illegible]ne of British steamers between Liverpool and Ver[illegible] Cruz had just left the latter port on its return [illegible] voyage. This is an [illegible] and legitimate invasion, though a peacefu[illegible] In other [illegible] one, of our commercial domain. [illegible] of us words, England continues to get ahea[illegible]ng in commercial enterprise with neighbor[illegible] countries. For trade with Mexico our local advantages are far superior to hers, but we neglect them. Our merchants, shipowners and the government ought to direct their attention to the vast aggregate trade of the American States which is slipping away relatively from us. At the present day steamship lines are the great medium of commerce, and we need more of them.

A Meteorological Wonder.

The storm of the last two days has been a meteorological wonder. On Saturday evening it made its irruptive advance upon the South Atlantic coast, having emerged from the West Indies. The cyclonic area was progressing northeastwardly along the Southern seaboard all day Sunday, and on Monday had reached the vicinity of Cape May. By the law of storms it should thence have struck off in a northeastwardly direction, and ninety in a hundred times such a path is pursued; but, instead of a northeastward direction, the meteor on Monday evening made a straight northwestward shoot towards the lower lakes, and in this eccentric track its power was disastrously felt over a wide extent of lake and seacoast country. The barometer fell very low in the Middle States—almost as low as in the Cuba hurricane of the 6th inst., when it passed over Key West and ravaged peninsular Florida. The effect of this depression on land was felt along the Atlantic from the Delaware capes to the mouth of the St. Lawrence, and at Quebec a hurricane wind of seventy-two miles an hour on Monday night was reported, with what calamity to shipping it does not yet appear.

As the winter approaches the Continent is daily becoming more and more chilled, and the atmospheric columns resting upon it being thus contracted, there is a tendency of the oceanic atmosphere to force itself in upon the land—a circumstance which may possibly explain the strikingly abnormal deflection of the recent storm centre, which, perhaps, all expected to go eastward.

The HERALD's Sunday prediction of the frost and cold weather that this gale would bring to Memphis was fully verified, and we may hope that the great relief afforded the plague stricken cities of the South will outweigh any marine losses sustained along the lake ports, which had been amply and officially forewarned of the danger impending.

THE BAZAINE COURT MARTIAL.—Marshal Bazaine's position before the French court martial was not improved by the testimony which was presented yesterday. Marshal Canrobert, Marshal Lebœuf, General Ladmirault and General Bourbaki alleged that various humiliating mishaps occurred to the French troops in consequence of the action, or non-action, of the accused at a most critical moment during the war with the Germans. MM. Rouher and Schneider inclined towards the prisoner by swearing that he never solicited the chief command. There is evidently a vast deal of personal feeling prevailing among the French officers with respect to the case, and many of them appear inclined to "rectify" themselves for history—"to fight their battles o'er again."

THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENET AND THE CHURCH IN ROME.—The General of the Society of Jesus has been notified by the Italians that the members of the order must immediately vacate the premises now occupied by them in the city. Meantime the government, under the law for the abolition of religious corporations, has taken possession of six Convents in the city, giving to each inmate a certificate of her future income. Against the seizure of certain portions of the Franciscan Convent the United States and Portuguese Consuls protested, on the ground that said portions were the property of citizens of Portugal or the United States. From these proceedings it may be reasonably inferred that other events of the kind will soon follow in Rome of the highest importance to the Catholic Church and the venerable occupant of the Vatican.

YOUR BULL AND MY OX.—The defalcation of Phelps, the cashier in the State Treasurer's office, has drawn out much virtuous indignation from the political journals, although the different parties look at the matter from opposite points of view. The republican organs declare that the robbery of the Treasury proves the State Treasurer, who is a candidate for re-election, to be unfit for office. The democratic organs assert that the robbery of the Treasury shows the State Cŏmptroller, who is also a candidate for re-election, to be unworthy of public confidence. The State Treasurer is on the democratic ticket; the State Comptroller is on the republican ticket. Perhaps this accounts for the difference in the views of the political organs.

PRESIDENT MACMAHON'S EXPOSITION of his executive position and political principle, delivered to a deputation of members of the National Assembly, gives assurance to the French people that the soldier Chief of State regards himself as an embodiment of the will of the millions, and that in his administrative capacity he is conservative without being a placeman inclined to hang on to office. The Marshal says, indeed, almost in words, Let France will; I obey.

THE EMPEROR OF GERMANY has been so much pleased with his visit to Vienna this time that he has remained there a day or two longer than he originally intended, and will not leave until this morning. "So glad."

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

General W. G. Ely, of Connecticut, is staying at the Astor House.

Charles Bradlaugh, of London, has returned to the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Frank P. Blair has been appointed and accepted the position of Commissioner of Insurance of Missouri, and arrived in St. Louis on Monday night to enter upon the duties of his new office.

Frederick Hecker, the distinguished German patriot, arrived in Baltimore yesterday morning on the steamship Berlin and was received and welcomed by a committee of German citizens. Last night he was serenaded by various singing societies.

General Butler and Jeff Davis arrived in Washington together by the same car a day or two ago. Neither, it is said, "renewed the assurances of their distinguished consideration" toward each other.

AMUSEMENTS.

Salvini as Sullivan.

The play of "Sullivan, the Actor," in which Signor Salvini appeared at the Academy of Music last night, has been made familiar to us by an English version, entitled "David Garrick." It is a strange story, and its action is not pleasing to prudes. We had been educated by performances of the play by Mr. Sothern to expect something remarkable in Salvini's acting. There is certainly scope for the nice naturalness which is claimed by his admirers to be the particular charm of Salvini's delineations. We have had our expectations realized, and yet we have been disappointed. Signor Salvini as Sullivan displayed a desire to refine some parts of the action, and so he failed to reach the truthfulness of reality. Hardly any better illustration of our meaning can be given than is to be found in the remark of an admirer of Signor Salvini, who, thoughtless for the time, said of the simulation of drunkenness, "'Tis a gentleman's inebriety. See how his noble nature shines through the impropriety of the actions." The remark was an unknowing criticism of the performance. If the audience could see through the disguise, is it likely that "love's sharp eyes" would be unable to pierce the veil? The assumption of a gentlemanly kind of intoxication is a refinement to attenuation! Men while drunk act as their passions dictate and not according to the dictates of prudery, or in fear of Mrs. Grundy. Possibly there will some time be organized, by people despairing of making all their fellows teetotallers, a society for encouragement of mild-mannered inebriety. But such a society will not properly claim "Sullivan" or "David Garrick" as exemplars of this idea. The plot of the play of "Sullivan" makes that character simulate the intoxicated antics of a passionate, vulgar man. When Signor Salvani allows "the attributes of a noble nature"—that is the pretty way the idea is put—to shine through the murkiness of his assumed character he plays false to the dramatist's idea. Yet, despite the imperfections to which so much notice has been given, Signor Salvini's performance last night was pleasing, as it showed that he possesses great ability in a department apart from that of purely tragical art; and none could have been pleased and solaced more than they who believe a man can do vulgar, low actions and still be a gentleman.

Musical and Dramatic Notes.

M. Sardou is said to be at work upon five pieces, all to be produced in Paris during this season.

Victor Emmanuel, while in Vienna, decorated Johann Strauss with the Order of the Crown of Italy.

Offenbach has composed an operetta called "La Jolie Parfumeuse," for the Renaissance Theatre of Paris.

Mr. Edward Jenkins, the author of "Ginx's Baby" and choleric opponent of Mr. Fitzjames Stephen, yesterday arrived at the Brevoort House. He will lecture to-night at Steinway Hall on "The England of To-day."

This evening "Don Giovanni" will be sung at the Academy of Music by probably the strongest company that was ever associated in this city with the opera. The cast embraces three prime donne, Mme. Nilsson, and Miles. Torriani and Maresi, and Signors Campanini and Maurel.

M. Benfratelli, the new Parisian tenor, who appeared at the recent inauguration of the Italian opera, under the management of M. Strakosch, is now decided to have "a fine metallic voice, issuing easily and under perfect guidance." The new prima donna, Mlle. Belval, has also a fine voice and is perfect in her art, being the daughter of M. Belval, of the French opera, and having been familiar with music since her childhood.

The Messrs. Strakosch, not content with the successes of their company on the operatic stage, have arranged a concert at the Academy of Music for next Tuesday evening, the 28th inst. All the prominent artists of the company, excepting Mme. Nilsson, are to sing, and the public will have an opportunity to make those closer comparisons of, and to discover those contrasts in, the methods of the performers, which could not be made or discovered while they were performing at separate and distant times.

WEATHER REPORT.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 22—1 A. M.

EARTHQUAKE IN WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

A Slight Shock Followed by a Volcanic Eruption.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21, 1873.

On Sunday last a slight shock of earthquake was felt at Seattle, Washington Territory, and at four o'clock on the same day an eruption from the summit of Mount Rainier occurred.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

Report of the Executive Committee of the Board.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21, 1873.

The committee of the National Board of Trade, in session here, submitted their report to-day. The report recommends the encouragement of American shipbuilding by the allowance of bounties for building, whether the materials used be foreign or American; condemns the credit system of the government promises to pay, and the national banks founded thereon, and demands a currency resting on a specie basis; condemns the policy of the banks in paying interest on call deposits; favors the government regulating inter-State transportation, and the reduction of rates, so that the producer may share in the profits of his produce; and condemns the system of watering stocks, so that dividends are paid on fictitious representations of value.

THE STEPHENSON MURDER.

Continuation of the Trial at Jersey City.

The trial of Jacob Mechella for the murder of Deputy Marshal Stephenson was resumed at Jersey City yesterday. The testimony was comparatively unimportant, as the salient points of the case were developed on the previous day. Counsel for defence opened their case, and produced, among other witnesses, two sailors, natives of Finland. The Russian Consul General was present during the forenoon. The prisoner was even more dejected, if such were possible, than on Monday. He betrayed extreme nervousness and sat with his head downwards during the proceedings. He looked at the witnesses for the defence only twice. He is reduced in weight by nearly forty [illegible] since the day of the murder. At the adjournment of the Court the deputy sheriffs seemed to carry him out, for the unfortunate wretch was unable to walk without ass[illegible]tance. The trial will probably be concluded to-day.

YELLOW FEVER.

No Marked Improvement in Shreveport.

CONDITION OF MEMPHIS.

The Frosts Having Little Effect in Checking the Disease.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 21, 1873.

There has been no marked change in the state of affairs for the last twenty-four hours. While the thickly settled or business portion of the city is comparatively exempt from the ravages of the fever the outskirts are suffering to a great extent. New cases are continually reported, and a further extent of territory over which it has spread is reported. It now covers a radius of five miles from the river, hardly exempting a family. The one redeeming feature is that it is not so violent, and, where the treatment is proper, the preponderance of cases that recover are much larger than when the epidemic first appeared. No prominent deaths to-day, and no prominent new cases are reported. W. P. Ford is out of danger; Isaac Kahn, J. R. Boon and Alfred Nolan, very low; Captain E. Bain and Dr. Ford are convalescing; Dr. Gray is out; Dr. Day has left the city to recuperate. The interments to-day were three.

The Fever in Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 21, 1873.

It is particularly requested by the Board of Health that absent citizens do not return until notified by them.

It is impossible to get anything reliable about the disease. New cases are occurring in isolated districts, and the frosts seem to have little effect in checking the disease.

Dr. Freeman, Secretary of the Board of Health, is reported dying to-night; also Dr. Blount.

The reports up to noon to-day are not favorable. There have been 24 deaths from yellow fever and 6 from other causes; total, 30.

The mortuary report for the past twenty-four hours, ending at six P. M., shows:—Yellow fever, 27; other causes, 10; total, 37.

Mortality in Montgomery.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 21, 1873.

There were three deaths from yellow fever to-day.

Patrick Ragland, Secretary of State, died at his home, in Jackson county, of pneumonia.

T. R. Terry, manager of the Southern and Atlantic Telegraph office, died last night about thirty miles east of this city.

Aid for the Orphans in Memphis.

There was a meeting on Saturday, October 18, of the Executive Committee of St. Michael's Association. It was held at the counting house of the chairman, at No. 52 Broadway. After the regular business of the committee was finished, the chairman, John D. Kelley, Jr., drew attention to the distressed condition of Memphis; and especially that the Dominican Sisters in charge of the Charity Orphan Asylum had declared themselves ready to receive more orphans, but were destitute of means for feeding and clothing them. These Sisters, having given up their academies and hospitals, are without their ordinary means of support.

The chairman of the committee sent $500 by express to the Dominican Sisters yesterday afternoon. The Association, in the name of the Sisters, ask for contributions, which can be sent to Mr Eugene Kelly, at 45 Exchange place.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, 1873.

River and Harbor Improvements—Estimates of Expenditure for the Coming Fiscal Year.

General Humphries, Chief of the Engineer Corps, has completed his estimates for carrying on the work of improving harbors and rivers, and forwarded it to-day to the Secretary of War. The amount called for is about the same as last year, according to the following schedule:—

For the improvement of the Hudson River, between Troy and New Baltimore, N. Y., he asks for $100,000.

For the removal of obstructions in the East River, including Hell Gate, $400,000.

The officer in charge reports this as the minimum amount requisite to prosecute the work with good effect.

If a commencement is made on Flood Rock it would require $600,000.

The number of feet of tunnels and galleries driven at Hallett's Point during the year was 2,731 lineal feet, and the quantity of rock removed 9,554 cubic yards.

For the improvement of Passaic River, New Jersey	$50,000
For continuing the removal of Salt Rock, Port Chester, N. Y.	60,000
For improvement of Rondout Harbor, N. Y.	85,100
For removal of sunken rock in channel off Sandy Hook	7,443
For improvement of Hyannis Harbor, Massachusetts	25,000
For improvement of Wareham Harbor, Massachusetts	25,000
For improvement of Taunton River, Massachusetts	15,000
For improvement of Newport Harbor, Rhode Island	24,000
For improvement of Wickford Harbor, Rhode Island	20,000
For improvement of Block Island, Rhode Island	100,000
For improvement of Pawcatuck River, Rhode Island and Connecticut	10,000
For improvement of Stonington Harbor, Connecticut	30,000
For improvement of Connecticut River below Hartford and Saybrook Bar	85,000
For improvement of Housatonic River, Connecticut	15,000
For improvement of Bridgeport Harbor, Connecticut	30,000
For improvement of Norwalk River, Connecticut	15,000
For improvement of Port Jefferson Harbor, Rhode Island	35,000
For improvement of Salem Harbor, Massachusetts	40,000
For improvement of Provincetown Harbor, Mass.	8,000
For improvement of Newcastle Harbor, Del.	30,000
For improvement of Wilmington Harbor, Del.	15,000
For improvement of Delaware River at Fort Mifflin	50,000
For improvement of Delaware River at Horseshoe Shoals, Pennsylvania	49,655
For improvement of Delaware River between Trenton and Bordentown	25,000
For improvement of Broadkiln River, Delaware	25,000
For improvement of Cohansey Creek, New Jersey	20,000
For improvement of Shrewsbury River, New Jersey, North and South branches	4,776
For improvement of South River, New Jersey	4,924

The works now projected are in progress for the improvement and preservation of Boston Harbor are as follows:—The sea walls for the protection and preservation of Point Allerton, Great Brewster Island, Lovell's Island, Gallop's Island, Long Island Head, Deer Island; straightening, widening and deepening the main ship channel at the Narrows; widening and deepening the channel through the Upper Middle Bar; the improvement of Naski Rock; completing the removal of Kelley's Rock; the removal of a sunken rock, discovered in September, 1872, lying in the main ship channel at the Narrows, between George's Island and Brewster Spit; the removal of State Rock, and the removal of the wreck of the schooner Delos. The whole amount required for these operations in connection with Boston Harbor in the next fiscal year is $225,000.

In regard to the construction of the pier near Lewes, Delaware, it is proposed to proceed with this work until the funds remaining shall be exhausted, hoping that it may be practicable to put down the piles on hand, thus extending the structure to 1,407 feet from the abutment, and possibly to build the superstructure equally far. If a further appropriation is made for the work during the next session, it is proposed to issue proposals for the remainder of the iron material and to resume work as soon as the funds become available. The amount asked for is $190,000.

As to improving the channel of Schuylkill River, Penn., the present season, it is proposed to complete the rock work at Locust street, carry forward the dredging at and above Penrose ferry bridge, also remove 137 cubic yards of rock from the channel at South street. Next year it is proposed to continue dredging the channel at Gibson's Point to twenty feet depth and to remove fast rock and large boulders from the channel off Gibson's wharf. The amount asked for is $40,000.

Silver Coinage.

The Superintendent of the Philadelphia Mint reports that a Chicago firm has sent $50,000 in silver bars for coinage into halves, quarters and dimes. This is the first sum of any large amount from private parties which has been received. Applications are daily received at the Treasury Department for information respecting the course to be pursued to secure silver coin in sums varying from $100 to $5,000.

PRINCE NAPOLEON.

The Leader of the Bonaparte Republican Alliance.

Prince Jerome Napoleon, His Character, Achievements and History.

MEANING OF HIS NEW DEPARTURE.

Brilliant Pen Portrait of the Prince.

PARIS, Oct. 8, 1873.

Prince Napoleon Charles Joseph Paul Bonaparte, who has recently distinguished himsely by suggesting that his party should make an anti-royalist fusion with the republicans, is one of those bustling princes who never seem happy unless the public tongue is wagging about them. From the year 1845 up to the present moment the world has been accustomed to hear of him in connection with something startling once or twice every twelvemonth; and, though he has achieved nothing of consequence, never set his name to an act which men would care to remember, yet he has talked so often and so loudly that people have come to look for his utterances as for those of a noisy bell, which fills the air with sound at regular intervals. His sayings, however, have seldom been insignificant, but often shrewd and occasionally eloquent, so that were he to die at this juncture the epitaph written for Charles II. of England might well be revived in his favor thus modified:—

The wordy son of idle king,
His word no man relies on;
He never said a foolish thing
And never did a wise one.

But Prince Napoleon has no thoughts of dying just yet. He is in his fifty-first year, which is full flood time in the lives of ambitious men, and many circumstances tend to show that his active career as a disturber of the peace is only just beginning. All those who know him intimately—and the writer of these lines, without ever having been one of his familiars, has had several opportunities of personally judging of him—are agreed that there is much more in him than appears on the surface; and that had he been a private politician or a crowned monarch he would have indented his name on the pages of history in no light characters. But hitherto he has been handicapped by the fact of his high rank on the one hand, and, on the other, by his absolute dependency on his cousin, the late Emperor. Now that Napoleon III. is dead, and that there is but one delicate exiled boy of seventeen between the Prince and the headship of the Bonaparte family—the promoter of the republico-imperialist alliance stands in a new position, and may set up as a pretender on his own account, without having anything to fear from such a course. He cannot be deprived of official dignities, for he holds none; his wealth cannot be forfeited, for that is securely invested in foreign stocks; but he can become a conspicuous somebody—a brilliant, revolving planet in the political firmament; and, as everything is possible to a diligent plotter, he may end by climbing to the throne over the shoulders of his young nephew, as Louis Philippe did over those of the little Duke de Bordeaux, or he may be guillotined by his neo-associates, as was Louis Philippe's father Philippe Egalité. Let it be noted that Prince Napoleon is precisely one of those men whom factious parties like to get hold of as their nominal leaders. He bears a name which must always be a tower of strength to French oppositionists. He is plausible enough to make many friends and unscrupulous enough to sign any programme or pledges which these friends may suggest, but he also possesses the great art of shamming stupidity when he pleases and of committing, now and then, some apparently egregious blunder which would lull his adherents into the belief that he was a mere tool in their hands and might easily be disposed of in the day of victory. Such astute fellows are not rare in political records. The Emperor Tiberius, Pope Sixtus V. and Napoleon III., to mention only the best known, were all helped to power by their repute as boobies; and, when the time came for throwing off the mask, their ex-followers were startled in a manner they had not anticipated. If Prince Napoleon ever leads a successful coalition of democrats it is already safe to predict that he will not be the dupe, but the duper. That is why it is well worth while taking a short survey of the man's past career, beginning with

HIS CHILDHOOD AND EDUCATION.

Prince Napoleon is the second son of Jerome, King of Westphalia, and the Princess Frederica of Würtemburg, and he was born at Trieste in 1822. If the laws which bind private persons controlled the acts or consciences of princes the marriage with the Princess Frederica would have been invalid and all the children of it illegitimate, for Jerome had been previously wedded to a Miss Elizabeth Paterson, daughter of a merchant at Baltimore, and this union was so regular in every respect that Pope Pius VII. refused to quash it when requested, or rather ordered, to do so by Napoleon. But the Emperor had a high-handed way of surmounting obstacles when they interfered with the greatness of his house, so the Council of State did for him what the Pope had refused. The marriage was annulled, and young Jerome, promoted to a kingship, was solemnly remarried, whilst the American lady to whom he had plighted his faith was still alive. This righteous union bore three children, the first of whom died early; but Napoleon, the subject of our notice grew up to be a healthy boy, strong and wilful, though wonderfully cool-headed. He was capitally educated—first at Rome, under the direction of his grandmother, Mme. Letitia; then at Geneva, and finally at the military school of Louisberg, whence he issued, after an examination which would have entitled him to a commission in the Würtemberg army, had he chosen to accept it. But, full of the glories of his French name, he declined to serve in any foreign State, and spent the first five years of his manhood visiting the different countries of Europe and giving himself out everywhere as the heir apparent to the Bonaparte rights. To explain this assumption, it must be remembered that until Napoleon III., by his clever and persevering tactics, got himself popularly acknowledged as chief of the family, the other Bonapartes were very loath to admit that he was one of their kin at all. The rumors of scandal asserted him to be the son of the Dutch Admiral, Verhuel, for it was notorious that King Louis and Queen Hortense had resided apart during most of their wedded lives, and that Admiral Verhuel, on the contrary, was Queen Hortense's recognized favorite both during her stay in Holland and for a while after it. If King Jerome had managed to secure the throne of France instead of his nephew it is probable that this little bit of family romance would have been investigated in a court of justice, and so decreed upon as to put Prince Louis Napoleon forever in the shade; and should Jerome's son ever become emperor we may confidently expect to see the pleasant story raked up again so as to cripple the claims of the present Prince Imperial. But, however that may be, Prince Napoleon started on his voyages with the settled conviction that his father and he were the only rightful heirs of the imperial dynasty (for, it will be recollected, the children of Lucien Bonaparte, Napoleon the First's elder brother, were debarred by the fact that their father's plebeian marriage had never been officially sanctioned), and such was the impression he tried to spread about him when he first came to Paris in 1845, and took society by surprise as if he were the ghost of Cæsar resuscitated.

RESEMBLANCE TO THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON.

For his resemblance to his uncle, the great Emperor, was really marvellous. It was a resemblance of look, voice, and even of manner; for, being conscious of the likeness, the young Prince strove to imitate the Emperor's abrupt speech and gestures, his deliberate gait, the trick he had of folding his hands behind him or walking meditatively with one hand thrust into his waistcoat. Those who have seen recent portraits of Prince Napoleon know how well he has preserved his Cæsaric lineaments despite portliness and early wrinkles; but one may imagine the sensation he caused when he came, with his fresh face and dark eyes, playing the part of Napoleon, as an actor might, in a city which had been lately convulsed by the return of the Emperor's ashes from St. Helena. It is said he went the length of sporting a gray topcoat like that famous one of Austerlitz and Jena, and the first time he visited the Invalides in this disguise old soldiers clustered weeping round him, kissed his hands and hugged him. To crown all, this darling Cæsar redivivus professed sentiments of the most advanced republican type. He swore only for the people and by the people, and had built up some attractive theory about the First Napoleon having established equality (apparently by hatching all those novel dukes, counts, princes and barons) and the Second being destined to found liberty. The republicans, who were growing dispirited by the nonending reign of Louis Philippe, swallowed all this like new wine with spice in it—what could be expected of a people who took such a garrulous nonentity as Louis Blanc for a Franklin?—and conceived the fine scheme of stumping the young Prince about the country to inflame the minds of rural electors. The go-ahead spirits of the party would have done more, and proposed that the Prince should actually be presented to the rustics as the old, original Napoleon, who had escaped from British clutches after being falsely reported dead, and was now come home to abjure his despotic theories and to implant free institutions among a regenerate people. But Prime Minister Guizot and Louis Napoleon became alarmed at these vagaries, and put a stop to them—the former by ordering the Regenerator out of the kingdom; the latter by breaking away from the prison of Ham, where he had been confined since 1840 for his escapade at Boulogne. It was much rumored at the time that Guizot had abetted Louis Napoleon's flight, actuated partly by the wish that the two pretenders might fall foul of each other, and, if Providence willed it, effect a mutual extermination. But it has been ascertained since that Louis Napoleon truly took French leave of his penitentiary, though, being a fatalist, who honestly believed that the hour of his deliverance would sound as soon as France was ripe for his hand, he would scarcely have hastened that deliverance as he did, had he not felt the necessity of counteracting his cousin's manœuvres. Documents were brought to light at the pillage of the Tuileries in 1870, which prove the misunderstanding between the kinsmen to have been most serious at this period; but Louis Napoleon had the advantage over his cousin in point of age, experience and worldly relations, which meant also command of money. He played his cards very well, and, curious to relate, used his cousin's likeness to the First Emperor as the chief means of discrediting him with the republican party, "for," said he, speciously enough, "a man who has a face like my cousin's

WILL WANT TO STAMP IT ON COINS.

He is a pre-ordained despot, whereas I, who have nothing but my birth and soundly democratical opinions to recommend me, I shall never be able to stir up old soldiers by the sight of my features, and republican institutions will consequently be safe in my keeping." This argument—asserted by private subsidists to various influential but needy liberals—so far damaged Prince Napoleon and his father Jerome that when the pair of them implored the Chamber of Deputies in a somewhat servile petition to readmit them on French soil M. Guizot acceded to the request, for a reason similar to that which had prompted the Prince's expulsion—namely, the desire that these two should counterbalance the occult influence which Louis Napoleon had begun to wield anew since his escape from prison. Jerome and son, accordingly, had the run of Paris (with detectives dogging them) for three months in 1847, but they gained no ground; and when, on the outburst of the revolution of February, 1848, Prince Napoleon hurried over from abroad and placed himself at the service of the Provisional government, he found a settled determination among these patriots to keep the Bonapartes at arm's length altogether. "We used them as a ladder, but now we are on the roof they would only take us up into the clouds, which is an eagle district," said Ledru Rollin to fussy, short-sighted little Louis Blanc, who has never been able to see beyond his small nose in politics, and who then was hot and strong for bringing Bonapartes of all shades into the fold; and the result was that Prince Napoleon was enjoined to go his way and mind his p's and q's. From this time Jerome and his son saw that their only chance was to cast in their lot with him whom they had nicknamed "Dutch Louis" and to PLAY SECOND FIDDLE.

"Dutch Louis," indeed, had several valuable friends, to wit:—Miss Howard, his mistress, who lent him £40,000; Marshal Narvaez, of Spain, who lent him £20,000, under promise of political help in his (Narvaez's) intrigues should Dutch Louis ever come to power; three English peers, of whom one was Lord Clarendon, who lent him between them about £100,000; the late Duke of Brunswick and the banker Fould, each of whom opened him an almost unlimited credit on their exchequers. With such sinews of war it was easy to outpace Jerome and son, who had never inspired moneyed men with much confidence. Dutch Louis bought or brought over to his side the principal red republicans, and, in fact, all such republicans as, having obtained no posts of emolument under the new Republic, were beginning to think that the revolution of 1848 had done much less for the good of mankind than it had promised. He further organized a formidable Bonapartist propaganda by means of tracts, songs and pamphlets in the provinces, and, in the upshot, as we know, was elected President by 5,000,000 votes. It is unnecessary to follow Prince Napoleon through his altered phases of conduct from this time till the proclamation of the Empire in 1852. Suffice it to remark that all he said and did was at his cousin's instigation, and that even when he seemed to be acting in opposition to the President's policy he was but faithfully obeying secret orders. In a letter written to Prince Napoleon by the President's secretary, Mocquard, on the 20th of December, 1848 (letter since found, with many others equally curious, at the Palais Royal under the Commune), the whilom restive cousin was thus significantly reminded of his duties:—"The Prince-President desires me to explain to you that he will admit of but one will in his family, and that you have the alternative of cooperating with him cordially or of taking up your position, once and for all, with his enemies. The Prince is ready to forgive the past, but with respect to certain rumors affecting his legitimacy, which you have been the means of industriously circulating—no doubt unmeaningly—he directs me to point out that even if these rumors were true—which you well know they are not—it would be less easy for you to impugn the Prince's parentage than for him to prove that your father's marriage with the Princess Frederica of Würtemberg was illegal." Prince Napoleon took the hint. Dutch Louis, being now in possession of the State archives, could prove what he pleased, and common prudence suggested the most absolute subserviency to his wishes. So Prince Napoleon, being elected Deputy for Corsica, set himself to play the part of wire-puller to the moderate republicans, whilst his cousin, Prince Peter Bonaparte, son of Lucien (the same who, in 1870, slew Victor Noir), discharged similar functions among the red republicans. Both these Bonapartes used to go whispering about the lobbies that the President had not the slightest intention of overthrowing the Republic, but was anxious that all liberals should join with him in keeping back the royalists of both branches. They invited republicans to dinner, voted with them, flattered them, bribed them, bamboozled them, and, in a word, wrought so diligently in their cousin's interest that when the Empire was restored each reaped his well-earned reward. Prince Napoleon was created a prince of the blood, a general of division, a senator and a Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, and received, he and his father Jerome, £150,000 between them, as well as the revenues of the Palais Royal to support their dignities. At this date commences the third stage of Prince Napoleon's career as

THE MECOENAS OF THE SECOND EMPIRE.

A stout, jolly-humored man, fond of good wine, convivial suppers and pretty women, he divested himself of his Cæsaric manners and set up as a bon vivant and patron of the arts. But, as it was essential that the imperialists should have a foot and an eye in every camp, it became Prince Napoleon's special province to feast and encourage such men as the Emperor could scarcely have received at Court without attracting unpleasant comments—that is, free-thinkers, crotchety philosophers and propounders of socialist schemes. Prince Napoleon gave himself out as a downright atheist, and gathered round him Ste. Beuve, Ernest Rénan, Havin, editor of the democratic Siècle; Gueroult, editor of the Opinion Nationale; Edmond About, Emile Augier, Emile de Girardin, Louis Jourdan, and a multitude of others, ejusdem farinæ. Most of these distinguished persons would have remained radicals had not Prince Napoleon's hospitality afforded them an agreeable excuse for being imperialists. Both at the Palais Royal and at the sumptuous Pompeiian villa he built in the Avenue Montaigne, the Prince caroused with those whom the clerical writer, Louis Veuillot, called his "conclave of infidels;" and, the better to mark their anti-Papist sentiments, they loved to choose fast days, and especially Good Fridays, for their unhallowed banquets. The religious papers shrieked, bishops remonstrated with the Minister of Public Worship, the Empress would look grave when her cousin's doings were bruited, and the Emperor would occasionally mutter some observation implying disapproval of the Prince's proceedings; but at bottom it was an understood thing. The Bonaparte Mecœnas would tell his guests that, in his heart of hearts, the Emperor was a sceptic too, but debarred from confessing it by a regard for the clergy and the morals of his people; and the guests would laugh at both clergy and morals, as they drank in champagne to the propagation of Messrs. Darwin and Littre's theories concerning our first ancestors, the tadpoles and babboons. Not a doubt of it, they were a merry set; but it must not be concluded from this that the Prince scattered his money in large handfuls. On the contrary, he was ever prudent with his disbursements, which accounts for his immense wealth at the present moment. It was a maxim with him that no man really wants more than 6,000 francs ($1,200) a year; therefore, when he had placed any needy soul in a way of earning that much he washed his hands of him thenceforth. As to women, the Prince's name was mentioned throughout the Empire in connection with a variety of scandals too numerous and delicate to repeat; and it is no secret, for instance, that he was the first discoverer and launcher of the notorious Cora Pearl. But he was never accused of wasting his substance in buying too many diamonds, and it is stated that his generosity most frequently took the form of government contracts (tobacco offices), or State secrets, which he could have for the asking, and which he retailed to his fair hearers in time to admit of their profiting thereby in Stock Exchange speculations. Altogether the respectable portion of the public viewed him with a cool and careful eye, and their mistrust of him was heightened by the

ENIGMATICAL PART HE PLAYED IN POLITICS.

This part is fresh in the recollections of all readers. From 1852 to 1859 Prince Napoleon chiefly signalized himself by the part he took in the Crimean war and by his short-lived tenure of the Ministership of Algeria. Having left Sebastopol somewhat precipitately, at the moment when the trenches were opened, Prince Napoleon was branded by the public, who judge of things superficially, with the charge of cowardice. The charge was absurd; for the Bonapartes are not cowards, and Prince Napoleon had really conducted himself well at Alma. But the true secret of the business is probably this, that, like the Dukes of Orleans under the old monarchy, Prince Napoleon was very shy of acquiring a military reputation, which would have rendered him an object of suspicion to his cousin. Emperors have always been very averse from seeing their cousins on too good terms with the army; and Prince Napoleon, as we have seen, had every reason for not quarrelling with his relative. For all that, the latter part of the second Empire, dating from the Italian war and the Prince's marriage with the Princess Clotilde of Savoy, was passed by the "Red Mecænas" in a ceaseless round of voyages. People said he was in disgrace, for he was absent for six or eight months of every year cruising about the world on board his yacht and when he perchance returned, it was, as in 1865, to make some such flamingly democratic speech as the one at Ajaccio, which drew down on him a sharp public rebuke from the Emperor and caused him to resign his Vice Presidency of the Privy Council. Others alleged that the democratical speeches were always prepared in the Emperor's own study and that they were intended to give the government a pretext to buffeting the entire liberal party in the Prince's willing person at times when the said party were growing too rampageous. The upholders of this last version contend that the Prince's voyages were all diplomatic missions under cover of pleasure trips, and that the Prince virtually steamed about in search of alliances. If so never were excursions more unproductive, for though the Prince visited America and Egypt, England and all the States of Germany, he never managed to secure a single ally to serve France in time of need. Parisians, of course, laughed at the Prince's wanderings, as they do at everything, and as the Prince was so ill-advised as to decline a challenge from the Duke of Aumale in 1861, after having virulently assailed His Royal Highness in print, songsters and punsters called the Emperor's cousin "Brain-Plomb" (gear-lead), and by contraction "Plomb-Plomb." Some day or other the mystery of the Prince's attitude under the Empire may be cleared up definitely, but for the present it is enough to observe that Plomb-Plomb was always at his cousin's beck when required, and that consequently the differences of opinion between the two can have been neither very deep nor very lasting. On the other hand, it is a certain fact that the Emperor never wholly trusted the man who had sought to crush him in early life; and the Empress, from religious as well as from personal motives, held him in peculiar distaste. "The best part of Prince Napoleon is his wife," she said one day to Princess Metternich; and in this she was to some extent right, for a gentler, nobler and more pure-hearted lady than the Princess Clotilde never breathed. Unfortunately the Prince had never been much influenced by his better half, and her gentle, womanly counsels are not likely to deter him from the course on which he now seems to have embarked. Prince Napoleon is unquestionably fated to be the firebrand of France for the next ten or twenty years. He has unfurled his flag, and will flaunt in the face of established order, whatever he may be, until he carries it in triumph to the rebuilt Tuileries or get swept along with it into the limbo of ambitious but unsuccessful adventurers.

FRANCE.

President MacMahon's Exposition of His Political Principle—A Soldier and a Conservative, but Not a Placeman.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, Oct. 21, 1873.

President MacMahon to-day received a deputation of members of the Assembly, who wished to ascertain if there was any truth in the reports of his intended resignation.

He informed them that he was always at the service of his country as a soldier.

As a politician, however, "he repelled the idea that he might hold on to office under any or all circumstances." He added that "he should never separate himself from the conservative majority of the Assembly, which had appointed him to power."

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS.

Elections to fill vacant seats in the Assembly have been ordered in the Departments of the Aube and Lower Seine.

Caucus of the Members of the Left.

PARIS, Oct. 21, 1873.

The Deputies of the Left have resolved to meet daily until the crisis is past.

MARSHAL BAZAINE.

Progress of the Trial of the French Commander—Marshal Canrobert's Testimony—"No Assistance Whatever" in a Moment of Battle—"Fall Back" at a Decisive Hour—What Ladmirault and Bourbaki Allege.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, Oct. 21, 1873.

Before the Bazaine court martial to-day, MM. Schneider and Rouher both testified that Bazaine never solicited the chief command.

MARSHAL CANROBERT'S TESTIMONY.

Marshal Canrobert gave most interesting testimony concerning the battle of St. Privat.

Although he was told that the Imperial Guards would be sent to his aid at noon, and twice asked Bazaine for ammunition, he received no assistance whatever. The Prussian Guards lost 8,000 men in this engagement, but he was compelled, nevertheless, to retreat by the enemy's overwhelming artillery. He could have held his position at Mars-la-Tour on the 16th of August, but abandoned it by special orders from the Commander-in-Chief.

MARSHAL LEBOEUF'S TESTIMONY.

Marshal Lebœuf deposed that his corps achieved a decisive advantage on the 16th of August; but Bazaine ordered it to fall back, fearing a failure of ammunition and provisions.

GENERAL LADMIRAULT'S TESTIMONY.

General Ladmirault testified that he received only on the evening of the 13th Bazaine's orders to cross the Moselle on the 14th. He gave a detailed account of the subsequent operations, and declared that he believed it would have been possible to cross the river on the 17th.

GENERAL BOURBAKI'S TESTIMONY.

General Bourbaki stated that he was not ordered to go to the assistance of Marshal Canrobert on the 18th of August.

CITY HALL.

A Dull Day in the Municipal Departments.

Yesterday was devoted to the merest matters of routine in the city offices. Neither of the Boards held a session. The Mayor devoted himself mainly to countersigning miscellaneous warrants, varying the monotony by performing the marriage ceremony in behalf of a pair of lovers who propose to retrench expenses in view of the financial stringency. It was said about the Hall that an effort was made to induce His Honor to withdraw the nominations for Police Justices made last June, but without effect; and they will probably be called up in the meeting of the Board of Aldermen to-day.

SPAIN.

Intransigente Naval Plunder Off the Harbor of Valencia—The City Tranquil and Government Aid to the Burghers—Carlist Movement in the Field.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

MADRID, Oct. 21, 1873.

A despatch from Valencia says the Intransigente vessels remain off that harbor.

They have captured and plundered several additional Spanish merchantmen.

The city of Valencia is tranquil.

Spanish troops are arriving here and all necessary measures are being taken to put the city in a state of defence against the expected attack.

SPANISH REPORT OF A RADICALIST SURRENDER.

There is a rumor in Madrid that the insurgent frigate Tetuan has surrendered to the republican authorities, but no confirmation of the report has been received by the government.

French News of a Carlist Triumph in the Field.

BAYONNE, Oct. 21, 1873.

It is reported here that the Carlist force under Lizarraga has again defeated the republicans.

GERMANY.

Prince Bismarck at Audience in Vienna—The Question of the Papal Succession—Kaiser William's Hope for Peace.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

VIENNA, Oct. 21, 1873.

Prince Bismarck had an audience with the Emperor of Austria to-day, and subsequently held conferences with the Premier, Count Andrassy, and the Italian Minister.

It is reported that at these interviews the Prince pressed the subject of national ecclesiastical legislation, and urged identical action on the part of Austria and Germany with reference to the Papal election.

KAISER WILLIAM TO THE GENIUS OF PEACE.

A farewell banquet was given at the Imperial Palace to-night. The Emperor William, proposing a toast to the health of the Emperor of Austria, said, "The friendly sentiments exchanged at Vienna are a pledge of peace for Europe."

ENGLAND.

Specie Moving Outward for America—Discount On 'Change and at the Bank—A Steamship for New York Daily.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, Oct. 21, 1873.

One hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars in specie was shipped from Southampton for New York to-day by the steamship Weser.

The steamship Nestorian, from Liverpool for Quebec, took $195,000.

BULLION TO THE BANK.

The amount of bullion gone into the Bank of England on balance to-day is £10,000.

DISCOUNT.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 6⅜ per cent, or ⅜ per cent below the Bank of England rate.

A Steamship Daily to New York.

LONDON, Oct. 21, 1873.

The Cunard Steamship Company has determined to withdraw its vessels from the West Indian service at an early day and to establish a daily line between Liverpool and New York.

SOUTH CAROLINA FINANCES.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 21, 1873.

The Legislature met in extra session to-day. Governor Moses sent in a lengthy message. He represents the funded debt at $15,027,503 and the floating debt at $5,306,397. He presents the following plan:—The State being unable to pay the interest on the debt as it stands, he proposes that the bondholders be induced to agree that the debt be reduced in volume; all bonds for which the State is actually liable, except $38,000 of State Capital bonds of 1853; the conversion bonds, amounting to $5,965,000; coupons upon the bonds, pay certificates, bills payable, scrip and other evidences of State indebtedness, to be returned to the State Treasurer, who shall issue instead other bonds or certificates of stocks equal in amount to the face value of such bonds coupons and certificates. He concludes with an argument in favor of higher taxation, saying that the rate of taxation in South Carolina is much lower than the average of the thirty-seven States of the Union.

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE DEDICATION.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 21, 1873.

Pardee Hall, the building erected for the use of the Pardee Scientific Department of Lafayette College, was formally dedicated to-day. The event has been one of the greatest in the history of the town. All business was suspended and the citizens of the borough joined in the ceremonies. Excursion trains were run on the different railroads, and hundreds of people poured into the town. The Synod of Philadelphia arrived in Easton on a special train. Members of the Synod of New Jersey and other synods were present in large numbers. There was a grand gathering of distinguished officials and educators, and the college grounds were crowded with a large concourse of people. The new building has been erected at a cost of $250,000, by Mr. Ario Pardee, of Hazleton, the founder of the Pardee Scientific Department of the College, whose benefactions to the institution amount to $500,000. It is built of Trenton brown stone, with trimmings of light Ohio sandstone, and presents a pleasing architectural effect.

THE TRIAL OF CAPTAIN CLARKE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21, 1873.

A jury was obtained to-day in the case of Captain Clarke, of the ship Sunrise, and the testimony on the part of the prosecution opened. Several witnesses testified to specific acts of cruelty towards the crew, and that three of their number—Francis Corrigan, Charles Brown and John Cordiff—jumped overboard during the voyage from New York, thereby committing suicide to escape from Clarke and his mates.

NEWARK'S CHAPTER OF BLOODSHED.

Conviction of Alexander Birrell for Slaying His Brother—Other Violent Cases Before the Courts.

Though there is no out and out murder case on the docket, the present term of the Essex county (N. J.) Oyer and Terminer is unusually full of manslaughter and other violent cases of bloodshed. Yesterday was brought to a conclusion the trial of Alexander Birrell, who was indicted for manslaughter, in having killed his own brother James. The evidence, as produced in court, was a substantial corroboration of the details as printed in the HERALD the morning following the tragedy, which took place on the evening of July 29. The two brothers, James and Alexander, both over forty years of age, lived with their aged mother. On the night in question the two men got into a quarrel because one man had eaten the other's share of some veal cutlets. Blows followed, and finally James produced and threatened to "cut the God damned heart" out of Alexander. Alexander succeeded in wresting the knife from his brother and then without more ado plunged it into James' breast. It penetrated the heart and James rolled over a corpse soon after. The knife was never found. On the trial Alexander admitted all this, but put in the plea of self-defence. James, he declares—and truly, for he was a very powerful man—could have pounded him to death. In charging the jury Judge Depue dwelt on this point. The question for the jury to decide was simply was the prisoner in such danger of his life or great bodily injury that it was necessary for him to take life? If so, he should be acquitted. If not, he should be found guilty. The prisoner's counsel, Mr. W. B. Guild, Jr., made a powerful and eloquent appeal to the jury, but it was of no avail. After being out about five hours or so they returned with in manner and form as indicated. The announcement completely unnerved "Aleck," who, together with his friends, expected an entirely different verdict, more probably because they wished it than from any hope held out by the trial. The record of the Birrell family is bloody. James, Alexander and another brother, named David, served in the army. David was killed. Both the others were badly wounded. Some years ago James killed a man who had abused Alexander at a picnic. For this he went to State Prison. Now Alexander will go for killing James.

A SHOEMAKER'S KNIFE

A VERDICT OF GUILTY

Frederick Schonewolf, who

KILLED A MAN WITH A BLOW OF HIS FIST,

one Jacob Linthle, was arraigned yesterday for trial. Through his counsel he withdrew his former plea of not guilty and put in one of non vult contendere. It was accepted, the Court adding that it would examine the Coroner's evidence and see if a plea of guilty to assault and battery was admissible.

GEORGE RORKE, THE PRIZE FIGHTER,

who made a deadly assault with a sabre, a short time ago, on one Richard Bradshaw, laying open the head of the latter so that he is still in a critical condition, applied to be admitted to bail. It was fixed at $10,000, which will probably keep George out of harm's way in the meantime. Two other cases of an atrocious character come up for trial to-day.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 21, 1873.

Governor Dix has issued a proclamation recommending Thursday, the 27th day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

The Household Panacea

and

FAMILY LINIMENT

is purely vegetable

and all-healing.

For internal and external use.

It will extract the fire from a burn immediately and remove all pain and soreness. In all cases of pain in the side, stomach, back or bowels, dysentery and summer complaints it should be taken internally as follows:—To a tumbler half full of water, put a tablespoonful or more of sugar, add to it a teaspoonful of the HOUSEHOLD PANACEA AND FAMILY LINIMENT, mix them well together, and drink it. In all cases of sore throat, either from cold, bronchitis, or any other cause, prepare the mixture as above and take a teaspoonful or two every hour or two through the day. For rheumatic affections in the limbs, stomach or back, spinal diseases, stitches in the back or side, make a thorough external application with the HOUSEHOLD PANACEA AND FAMILY LINIMENT, in its full strength, rubbing it in well. For toothache wet a piece of cotton and put it to the tooth. It is best at all times, when making an external application, to take some of the above mixture internally. For burns or scalds, put it on in its full strength, immediately after the accident. For cuts, wrap up the wound in the blood and wet the bandage thoroughly with the HOUSEHOLD PANACEA AND FAMILY LINIMENT. It quickens the blood and invigorates the whole system. No mistake about it. Sold by druggists and chemists and dealers in medicine.

Prepared by

CURTIS & BROWN,
215 Fulton street, New York.

To Dr. Helmbold's Patients.—The Celebrated EXTRACT BUCHU, of which Dr. Helmbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great diuretic never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it. JOHN F. HENRY, New York, sole agent.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Superintendent until 12 M. of the 10th day of November, 1873, for furnishing, delivering, fitting and putting in place the wrought and cast iron work of the window frames, architraves, finishings and sashes of the external openings of the first story, the window frames, architraves and finishings of the external openings of the second, third and fourth stories and the door frames, architraves and finishings of the interior openings of the second, third and fourth stories, all as exhibited on the drawings described in the specifications and called for in the schedule.

Copies of the drawings, specifications and schedule may be had on application at this office.

All scaffolding required by the contractors to put the work in place will be furnished by the government, free of charge, but will be erected by the contractors.

Proposals will be made by the piece for the various articles of wrought and cast iron work, as provided for in the schedule.

The work will not be subdivided among different bidders, but will be considered in the aggregate.

The whole of the work to the first story must be delivered and set in position within four months from date of acceptance of proposal, and the remainder of the work as rapidly as required by the Superintendent and the progress of the work on the building.

Payments will be made monthly, deducting ten per cent, until the final completion of the contract.

All bids must be accompanied by a penal bond, in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), that the bidder will accept and perform the contract if awarded him, the sufficiency of the security to be certified by the United States Judge, Clerk of the United States Court or the District Attorney of the district wherein he resides.

The Department reserves the right to reject any or all bids if it be deemed for the interest of the government to do so, and any bid that is not made on the printed form, to be obtained in this office, and does not conform in every respect to the requirements of this advertisement will not be considered; neither will any proposal be received from parties who are not themselves engaged in the manufacture of wrought or cast iron work, and who have not the necessary facilities for getting out the work.

Proposals will be enclosed in a sealed envelope, endorsed "Bids for iron work," and addressed to

C. T. HULBURD, Superintendent.

HELP WANTED—MALES.

ATTENTION, RUBBER HAND STAMP AGENTS AND all others who may be out of employment. We give larger commissions for selling our goods than any other house in the business. Our prices cannot be beat by any other house, and our goods are more durable, and will produce better impressions. It requires no capital for an agent to engage in it. All we want is good live men, and such can make money easily and surely. Pay no attention to advertisements by rival houses crying out "Counterfeits, imitations, &c.," who copy our advertisements and headings, and who have so little confidence in their own goods or in their ability to do business that they fear competition, and try to get trade by making it appear that all others but themselves are impostors. We rely only on the merits of our goods, leaving it for an intelligent public to render their verdict. Call and judge for yourselves, at 51 Cortlandt st., room 7, after 9 A. M.

BOUTWELL ON FINANCE.

The Ex-Secretary of the Treasury On Finance, and the Panic and Its Remedies.

A Resumption of Specie Payments.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE QUESTION.

The Policy of the Government Probably Indicated.

Conditions Necessary For Resumption.

The Inflation of the Currency Recommended.

The second of the series of the "Galaxy Course" of lectures was delivered last evening at the Church of the Disciples, Forty-fifth street and Madison avenue. The lecturer was Senator George S. Boutwell, the ex-Secretary of the Treasury, and the subject of the lecture was "Finance and the Panic, and its Remedies."

The lecture attracted a large and intelligent audience, and, unlike the previous Galaxy Course lectures, one made up mainly of solid business men, specially interested in the important themes to be discussed. Passing over the highly artistic prefaratory music on the organ and the admirable introductory speech of ex-Judge Pierrepont, we come to the appearance of Mr. Boutwell. An enthusiastic welcome greeted his appearance. He began his lecture in a very low and subdued tone of voice, which with many, no doubt, dispelled the first prepossessions in his favor; but, as he advanced in his subject, his voice grew louder and clearer, till, notwithstanding the natural dryness of a theme so necessarily statistical in its character, his thoughts blending strangely, figure tables and similes came forth in a strain of impressive eloquence—the eloquence inseparable from earnest growing warmth in his subject. The comprehensive scope and clearness of his views, the incisive cogency of his reasonings and the irrepressible plainness of his deductions will be made apparent in the report of the lecture as given below. At frequent interruptions he was loudly applauded, and, though speaking an hour and a quarter, was listened to till the close with the most earnest and undivided attention.

Mr. Boutwell, after a few prefaratory remarks, said:—

I ought first of all to say that I pivot all the opinions I entertain on the question of finance, touching the present condition of things (a condition lengthened already beyond that which was desired), upon the idea we are to bring the paper value to a level with that of coin. I make a distinction between the paper value and the equalization of values in coin. I do not look upon it as practicable or desirable that the banks of the country should resume specie payment, but I do expect the government will. We are passing, or the great cities of the Atlantic coast are passing, through a very severe financial crisis. We have a paper currency of more than $700,000,000. It is not possible for any one to say whether this is in excess or not. We are suffering from consequences which I will specify in three particulars. During the last five or six years there has been a depreciation of the credit of the country. In 1869 the coin bonds of the United States was 82 on the 100. Under such circumstances it was not possible that the debts of the country could be paid in coin; it was only possible to pay the interest in coin. During the last four years this evil has been remedied. We were a short time ago offering simultaneously a twenty-year five per cent bond with France, who was offering a five per cent bond. Why should their bonds be sought for, while none were subscribed for in moderate sums? The reason was that the bonds were given to bankers at 83 per cent on the dollar and sold at 84, while ours were sold at 100 and nothing less. Another circumstance contributing to the present condition of things is the volume of paper currency. You may carry paper currency to a great excess. The balance of trade has largely been against us for many years. We have not considered sufficiently the withdrawal of trade during the four years of war. There was the withdrawal of the cotton crop. The failure of the banks to resume specie payments was caused by accidental causes. But the inability of the country to resume specie payments was due to two causes—the disaster at Chicago and that at Boston—which swept from the earth $300,000,000 of property. Another fact must be taken into consideration. You have large speculations in gold on Wall street, but that speculation is based upon a continual demand of $250,000,000 per week. It is impossible to resume and maintain specie payments until the balance of trade is very little against us. I have no faith in any policy except that which develops the trade of the country, so that we can export largely to other countries. When we resume specie payments I hope that we shall resume for our lifetime. Within the last two years,we have mastered two propositions which it was supposed during the war we could not maintain. This was that the export trade and the shipping interest could not be developed after the war and under a protective system. But we have seen that both these have been developed. In the matter of labor, we have produced a revolution. What were considered luxuries in former times we have commanded commonly and we have produced what are the substantial articles of business at a corresponding cost with other countries. Connected with this subject is the increase of shipping in the country. During the last year this trade has given some evidence of increase. In the year ending June 30, 1873, the proportion of trade done by Americans is seventy-three per cent, which is a slight increase. The last estimates tend to prove that the freight money on all goods and merchandize brought into this country and carried out is $100,000,000. If so, this is $23,000,000 paid to Americans, and $73,000,000 paid to foreigners during the last year. When we have equalized the trade between foreign countries, we shall have reduced the necessity of specie payment $1,000,000 per week. The duties imposed upon the articles for construction of ships have been removed, and this is of great advantage to the country. But there remains to be considered a policy which relates to the shipping interest of the country. I think you must consider the day of naval engagements as over; for us, at least, it is certainly over. For the purpose of protecting commerce it is needful only for us to show the flag of the country. The time is near at hand when America will have the power to enforce justice without recourse to war. If I do not err in this, the naval armament may be very much reduced. Instead of the present expenditure, we shall have a reduction of thirty-three per cent. Two or three years ago the subject was agitated of subsidizing, first, lines of steamships to various quarters of the globe, and then generally the construction of vessels. It was then ascertained that a subsidy of $10 per ton would leave room for the construction of all the vessels required for all the commerce of the country. Now, in consequence of the increased price of labor, a subsidy of $5 would enable us to control the carrying trade in which the United States is concerned. If you have observed the operation of the Treasury Department for five years this fact is before you, that during the summer months, when there is but little real necessary use for capital, the Treasury Department has accumulated to the amount of $10,000,000, $12,000,000, and even in one year more than $20,000,000, for the purpose of meeting those exigencies in financial affairs which, in this country, are inevitable—the exigencies which are pressing in proportion to the prosperity of the country; and, therefore, while they are to be looked for with some apprehension, still they must be regarded as an incident in the operation that in the end contributes to the public welfare. I refer to the necessity of using the capital which in the summer months accumulates in the cities in moving the crops from the country to the seaboard, or using it in transporting the crops abroad. This is the natural condition of things. In the ordinary condition of things, with proper safe-guards, it ought only to produce a pressure on the money market, which, by natural causes furnishes the means of its own relief in this, that the money taken from New York to be sent South and West and expended in the purchase of the products of these sections would be found to be of more use in New York. Therefore the pressure brings destruction to nobody having means, the capital of the country being temporarily employed in the purchase and transportation of products, and then the money returned to other channels. But in four or five years—in every one of these years—there has been one cause existing calculated to produce a panic; in two of those years it contributed very largely to produce a panic—in 1869 and 1873. It grows out of the practice tolerated by law, which the Treasury Department at successive times has condemned, and which, if permitted to continue, must every year produce serious disasters, the nature of which can be understood, but the extent of which cannot be foretold. It is the practice of banks taking money on deposit and paying interest for it. (Loud cheers.) As a matter of principle a bank is established on the idea that he who establishes it is a capitalist and not a borrower of money. Banks are established to resist the consequences that arise from the actions of speculators—to protect merchants and those doing a fair business; and national banks and the banking business as a whole should be as stable and firm as the Treasury of the United States. (Cheers.) I know this well—that the merchant or dealer in goods giving his paper on time will find by no doctrine of chance that it matures on different days. He has the means, by an examination of his books, to know what he is to be called on to pay. Still the maturity of the paper gives no clear idea of the ability to meet engagements, and banks ought to resist practices of that kind. (Cheers.) What is the effect on the business of the country, West and South, arising from this purchase of products. Imagine a farmer in a country town in New York. He has in bank $100 or $500 that he thinks he may want at some future time but does not know when. If he can go to a national bank, deposit the money and receive interest for the time it is left there, and call for it when he chooses, he is very likely to dispose of it in that way instead of keeping it himself or loaning it to some person agreeing to pay it when the time expires, the condition of the bank being such that it does not dare to lend the money to a business man, because it does not know when it would be called on for the deposit. The money is sent to Philadelphia or some other city; it is deposited in some national bank; it comes to the city. What is the condition of the bank in the city? The bank does not dare to loan the money by a regular discount of paper, but it loans the money on stocks on a "margin." You know what that means better than I do. In 1869 I know that some of the banks made loans on call; but they did not ask those to whom such loans were made to respond, because they well knew that they could not respond. Just see how unjust this is to all the business men of the country. The money could not be used by merchants who obtain money on legitimate transactions. When money is abundant people are induced to speculate in stocks; so that you see this practice of which I have just spoken is an evil to the city and to the country. This year, with such aid as the Treasury could have furnished, there would have been enough money for legitimate business, but we had to meet the borrowing of money by banks and the paying of interest for it. Another circumstance aggravates these difficulties. It is one of which we have reason to complain. Under the State bank system formerly in operation merchants loaned their money on good security. But in a panic every one is anxious to hoard his money and get what he can. I hope that the financial difficulties that have been lately troubling us are over. Looking at the great shipments of grain, I conclude that gold will soon return for it to the country. With regard to the expansion and contraction of the currency, I entertain no doubt whatever as to the legality and right of the government to issue any part of the $44,000,000. Power is lodged in the Treasury Department to issue any part of that amount; but it is not to be issued for increasing permanently the volume of currency in the country, but for relieving the business of the nation. In 1872 $5,000,000 of the $44,000,000 was issued. It is easier for the government to expand than to contract the currency. Having overcome contraction to the extent they have gone, I hope they will hold the ground they have gained, and they ought not to increase the currency without knowing the position they occupy. If there was a system of free banking we would have all the relief we sought, and I suppose that those who favor such a system would like to do banking business with the bonds of the United States. National banks should endeavor to furnish facilities for the purposes of business whenever it should be deemed necessary to increase the circulation; and if there is a necessity to increase it, it is more economical to increase the issue by the circulation of United States notes. The banking system should be the means of furnishing circulation only so far as necessary, and not for the mere purpose of supplying circulation. You may say with propriety that what has been offered from the platform does not furnish an immediate solution of the existing difficulty. I admit that the difficulties are the result of an expensive and exhaustive war. The country must be first restored to a natural condition, and by a natural condition of finance I mean a condition by which our exports shall be equal to our imports, in ordinary years, if the balance of trade against us be removed. We can then resume specie payments without fear; but if, under the pressure of any developments in the country, an attempt be made to resume specie payments, I fear that the results would be disastrous and ruinous to us. I have this to say, that the development of the business of the country, by which laborers are employed, by which the treasury of the government is supplied with the means of paying its obligations and existing interest, some part of the public debt, is a consideration more vital to the country than the question whether we resume specie payments in 1873, 1874 or 1875. If we adopt and maintain a wise and comprehensive policy in reference to the business and affairs of the country, specie payments will certainly come. But if we fail to adopt such a policy in regard to the business and labor of the country, and yet in a moment of fancied security and power venture on the resumption of specie payments, the result would be disastrous to business and labor, and would bring ruin on the nation. The difficulty through which we are passing is but temporary. It will, doubtless, affect disastrously the careers and fortunes of many persons. They deserve our most hearty sympathy, the sympathy of the public, but the misfortunes of a single individual can never be a sufficient reason or excuse for putting the country, as a whole, in an uncertain course in its public policy. It is then that men responsible in public affairs should adhere to well settled doctrines of public policy. The mercantile interests of the country are strong. I believe that the merchants doing business in the country and in the cities are generally in good condition, and time, which cures many ills, will not only relieve those who are in apparent distress at the present moment, but will open a way, clear and sure, for the future of the country. There is no occasion for dismay. There is no reason for doubt. We have gained every year since the close of the war in our finances and in the development of our industry. If in construction of railroads we have done more than it was wise to do, at times and places not yet entirely suitable, still the country, as a whole, will not suffer by the undertaking. Railroads aid in the development of the country. The track of the railroads will be followed by the settler. The hum of industry will be heard in their traffic, and from those rich lands will come products hereafter to be sent to our seaboard and thence over the world, bringing back large returns in money; and what is better than money, the luxuries, the comforts and the necessaries of life. When one has paid his debts, what is money compared to the comforts of life? When the demand is in excess of the production then it will be imperative on us to resume specie payments.

After apologizing to the audience for the uninteresting nature of the subject, Mr. Boutwell concluded by observing that, in a country like this, the matter he had discussed could never cease to be of public importance.

After a few words from Mr. Pierrepont the proceedings were brought to a close.

THE RECENT BOND FORGERIES OF $800,000.

Andrew Roberts, Frank Gleason, George Wilks and George S. Olmstead, of Staten Island, are at the present moment lodged in Ludlow Street Jail, charged with being accessories in the recent bond forgeries of $800,000, which consisted of the following bonds:—

New York Central	$250,000
Buffalo, New York and Erie	200,000
Western Union Telegraph Company	200,000
New Jersey Central	150,000
Total	$800,000

Andrew Roberts, of 210 West Twenty-first street, will, in all probability, demand to be released on habeas corpus to-day in the Supreme Court, Chambers. On the 2d of last September the HERALD published exclusively the names of Andrew Roberts and Frank Gleason as alleged principals in this matter, and the statement of Mr. Thomas Sampson, Stock Exchange detective, who gave the list of $800,000 forged bonds which were to be emitted by the gang last February. Eight thousand five hundred dollars of funds belonging to Johnstone, of Williamsburg, now a prisoner in the Tombs, has been attached, and $70,000 captured from Andy Roberts, now in the hands of the District Attorney, which comprises likewise a forged bond of the Buffalo, New York and Erie Railway, and which, it is alleged, has been recognized by Olmstead, of Staten Island, as his work.

THE LONG ISLAND CITY "IMPEACHMENT" FIZZLE AGAIN.

The "impeachment" ring of the Long Island City Board of Aldermen made a final and desperate attempt last evening to pass the charges against the Mayor so as to be able to bring them into the Queen's county Court of Oyer and Terminer, now in session at Hempstead. The ten members necessary not being present, Mr. Hunter and his adherents went into "executive session"—that is, they turned out the large crowd of spectators, including the reporters, lighted their pipes, placed their legs on the desks and thus waited for two mortal hours in the hope that some absent members of the Board would arrive. At ten o'clock they "gave it up," reopened the doors and formally adjourned. The "impeachers" appeared quite crestfallen, and one of them was so much ashamed to admit his failure that he tried to persuade the reporter that the articles of impeachment were passed in "executive session," and without the necessary two-thirds vote. Of course, he took the reporter to be as great a fool as himself. The wise Alderman and his associates, however, were terribly taken aback when it was shown to them that (according to article 6, section 7, of the State constitution) even the whole Board of Aldermen have no power to impeach anybody, nor has any Court but the Senate and Court of Appeals the power to try an impeachment case. In their desperation the few "red hot" impeachers have resolved to go to Hempstead to-morrow and ask the Court of Oyer and Terminer to try their case, whereat much fun is expected.

The boards of direction of nearly all the mills at Fall River, Mass., have appointed a committee to confer with the representatives of corporations in other places in regard to a partial suspension of work during the present dull times.

The Anchor line steamer Ismailia, from New York September 29 for Glasgow, has not yet arrived. Being several days overdue, much anxiety is felt for her safety.

IMMIGRATION.

Result of the Labors of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21, 1873.

The Committee on Immigration appointed by the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union, which held its annual convention here last week, held a meeting before leaving the city and organized, by the election of Judge Denis Dwyer, of Ohio, as chairman, and M. Glennan, of Norfolk, Va., as secretary. A general plan of operations was agreed to, the principal features of which are that Secretary Glennan shall correspond with all local and State societies belonging to the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union, requesting them to appoint immigration committees, and in all cities where there are a number of societies the committees appointed by them shall elect sub-boards, which shall have supervision of immigration in their respective localities. The National Board will appoint an agent at each seaport at which immigrants usually arrive in this country, who shall, under the supervision of the sub-board of the city, attend to all the wants and comforts of immigrants as they arrive, and afford them all the protection and information they may need. It is further proposed to communicate with all, or as many as possible, of the parish priests in Ireland, informing them of the object of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union, and urging them to influence those seeking homes in this country to place themselves under the protection of the Union. It is not the intention of the National Board, however, to solicit or encourage immigration, but simply to protect and aid all those who determine of their own accord to leave their country.

The resolution for the establishment of a depot and offices at the various seaports conjointly with the German Catholic Board, organized for the same object, was discussed, and will probably be carried out.

INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

A meeting of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen, consisting of Messrs. Van Schaick, Chairman; Ottendorfer, Morris, Kehr and Koch, was held yesterday afternoon in the Aldermanic Chamber, to consider the subject of appropriating $2,500,000 by the city of New York towards the construction of the Industrial Exposition, to be located on Third and Lexington avenues, between 98th and 102d streets, subject to the provisions of chapter 74 of the Laws of 1873, which authorizes the Commonalty of the city to issue bonds for said amount. The Board of Directors of the Exhibition Company attended in good numbers, some of whom made some very powerful arguments in favor of the appropriation, citing the patriotism of Philadelphians and their enterprise, and the support extended thereto by their city authorities.

The session of the committee was attended by a large and influential number of property owners of the Twelfth and Nineteenth wards, all of whom contended that, by erecting the proposed building, real estate would be greatly enhanced in value, not only in the immediate vicinity, but on the entire west side.

Not a solitary person spoke against the proposed appropriation. The committee adjourned subject to the call of the Chair.

Marine Disasters.

STEAMSHIP DARIEN (Br), Leighton, from Liverpool for Bermuda and Savannah, while making for the harbor of St George, Bermuda, about Oct 17, grounded on the bar and stuck fast. It was blowing hard at the time and a heavy sea running, but with the aid of a tug she was got off 4 hours after she had struck. Will have to be docked to ascertain the extent of damage.

BARK CLARA (Br), which arrived at St John, NB, a few days ago from Darien, Ga, with a cargo of pitch pine, encountered heavy weather on her passage, and was considerably damaged.

BRIG JOHN GIVAN (Br), McLeod, from Philadelphia for Yarmouth, NS, with coal, in beating up Yarmouth harbor on the 9th inst went on the middle ground. The vessel is so much strained that she fills with water every tide. Her cargo is being landed in schooners.

BRIG BENJ CARVER, before reported ashore at Vineyard Haven, was hauled off 18th, AM, and was reloading her cargo 19th.

BRIG FALCON, Smith, from Philadelphia, which arrived at Mayaguez Oct 1, had very heavy weather, and lost part of deckload.

BRIG CERVANTES (Sp), with coal, from Cardiff bound to Vera Cruz, put into St Thomas Oct 11, with loss of topmasts.

SCHR IDA S BURGESS (of Belfast, Me), from Savannah, arrived below Providence night of 20th inst, and was towed up next morning. She took a heavy gale on the 1st inst, and had to throw over her deck load of lumber. On the 3d Thomas Jenkins, mate, died, and was buried while the gale was at its height. On the 7th it was found that they were short of provisions and water, and all hands and a lady were put on an allowance. On the 11th two of the crew quarrelled, and one stabbed the other with a knife; the culprit was put in irons, but was released to help work the ship until she reached port, when the wounded man was sent to the Rhode Island Hospital, and his assailant was locked up.

SCHR MONTE CHRISTO, from Savannah for Boston, at Vineyard Haven 19th, had lost part of her deckload of hard pine. Frank Page, of Stockholm, Me, one of the crew, died of fever on the passage.

SCHR MARY A RICH, from Savannah for Montevideo, which put into St Thomas some time ago in distress, sailed from that port Oct 6 for New York (another report says for Portland or Boston). The cargo of lumber was sold at St Thomas for $15 per M.

SCHR JACOB BIRDSALL, for a Northern port, returned to Norfolk on the 20th inst leaking, and with loss of anchor and chain.

SCHR WANATA, from Charleston for Wilmington, Del, was at Lewes, Del, Oct 18, reported leaky.

SCHR W J MORRIS, of Squan, NJ, before reported ashore at Sandy Hook, has been got off by the Coast Wrecking Co, and was taken to Keyport Oct 18.

SCHR RACINE, from Philadelphia for Dartmouth, put into Chester, Pa, Oct 20, with loss of bowsprit and headgear by collision.

SCHR JESSIE MURDOCK, Christie, at New Bedford Oct 19 from Georgetown, DC, via Wareham, was run into on the night of the 12th, off Barnegat, by an unknown schooner, carrying away the former's jibboom. The latter vessel had mainsail badly torn.

FROM THE MAGDALEN ISLANDS—Capt Moses B Tower's divers and wreckers have returned home from the Magdalen Islands. They report that about 20 American vessels remained ashore when they left. There was a prospect of saving nearly all. All but four would probably be got off during the winter—part of them would be screwed up and launched upon the ice, which forms very solid, a few weeks hence. Among the vessels which had been ashore was the J C Smith, of Wellfleet, which went on near Mt Mademoiselle. Soon after she struck, several of the crew swung ashore on the staysail halliards. Four were drowned.

HALIFAX, N S, Oct 21—The brig Magdala (Br), from Sydney, C B, reports passing a vessel 25 miles SE of Sambro, on her beam ends; she was bark rigged, but it being dark no further particulars could be ascertained.

Brig Albert the Good, which was ashore at Cow Bay during the August gale, was safely floated off to-day.

The steamer Lady Head arrived from Sable Island last night, brought the captain and crew of the bark Humbletonian (Br), from London for New York, which was wrecked there in a fog Sept 26. The captain of the Humbleton says he heard the fog whistle from the island, but thought it was from a passing steamer. The lifeboat belonging to the island saved all the stores, anchors, running gear and three boats belonging to the bark. Two weeks after she struck she went to pieces.

QUEBEC, Oct 21—The ship Latonia, from Montreal for South America, with lumber, lost her anchors in a gale and took shelter at Cape Deable. A tug which was sent to her assistance was unable to reach her, owing to the violence of the gale.

ST THOMAS, Oct 14—The cargo of lumber of bark Flor del Mar (Br), was offered at auction. The highest bid was $11 50 and the lumber was withdrawn. Will wait advices from home.

Miscellaneous.

LAUNCHED—On Monday, 6th inst, from the yard of B D Metcalf & Co, Damariscotta, Me, a light-draught centreboard schooner of about 250 tons called the San Juan; length 122 feet, breadth 31.5 feet, depth 8.4 feet. She is intended for the Gulf trade.

Also, from the yard of C G Merry, Damariscotta, on Saturday, Oct 11, a three-masted schooner called the Delia O Yates; length 133 feet, breadth 31.35 feet, depth 15 feet; of the burden of 442.05 tons, new measurement.

HALIFAX, NS, Oct 21—The steamer Lady Head which arrived last night from Sable Island brought the crew of the missing boat of the steamship Wyoming, which left that vessel when she struck near Sable Island some weeks ago.

A.—HERALD BRANCH OFFICE, BROOKLYN corner of Fulton avenue and Boerum street.
Open from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
On Sunday from 3 to 9 P. M.

ABSOLUTE DIVORCES OBTAINED FROM COURTS of different States; legal everywhere; no publicity no fees in advance; advice free; commissioner for every State.
FREDERICK I. KING,
Counsellor-at-Law, 363 Broadway.

LIVER SPOTS.—SYMPTOMS, LIGHT, YELLOW, green, red or brown spots appear on the face, forehead, neck and breast. The above and all SKIN DISEASES cured by Dr. VANDYKE, office (Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday), No. 6 West Sixteenth street.

MEDICAL SCIENCE—ARE FACTS SMALL IN NUMber?—In gout and rheumatism there is an excess of uric acid in the blood. Crystalized deposits of red sand in the urine is the evidence of this fact. Sooner or later these form gravel and stone, the only relief—not cure—of which has heretofore been dangerous surgical operations. If the disposition of the system to such formations remain unchanged—which all hitherto known remedies have failed to remove—these formations are reproduced. Dr. A. H. HEATH has not had a case among the large number presented to him that the peerless BETHESDA SPRING WATER, from Waukesha, Wis., has not dissolved and cured. Full information at consultation rooms, No. 200 Broadway.
